Mother Of Spanked Youth Runs Amuck In Court Room

INK WELLS, ASH TRAYS, ARE HEAVED

Anaheim Woman Held After Rampage on Charge of Contempt of Court
SPANKING IS UPHELD
Jury Fails to Convict Two Teachers For Flogging 14 Year Old School Boy

ANAHEIM, May 7.—Vehemently cursing the entire courtroom and threatening to "get all of you," Marie Hogan, 107 North Lemon street, who had preferred charges of battery against Wilbert Bonney and C. S. Davis, teachers in the Fremont school, following a spanking administered to her son, Robert Hogan, ran amuck, throwing heavy inkwells, ash trays and anything she could get her hands on at the principals in the case after a verdict favoring the defendants had been rendered by the jury late yesterday afternoon.

After an all day session in the justice court of Anaheim and after more than an hour's deliberation, a jury composed of eight men and four women returned a verdict of "not guilty."

Dr. A. Gauer, city superintendent of schools, filed a complaint against Marie Hogan following the outburst, charging her with contempt of court. This was done on the recommendation of Leo Fris, deputy district attorney who prosecuted the case. Constable Ed Marion held Mrs. Hogan's arms and escorted her to the street following the outburst.

The spanking of Robert Hogan, 14, occurred on March 21, and Mrs. Hogan filed a complaint against the two teachers on March 23, charging them with battery.

During the morning portion of the trial, young Hogan admitted that he had done wrong in school and that Bonney had upbraided him before spanking him.

Dr. John Truxaw testified that the boy's body had been black and blue and that he had administered medical relief.

Dr. R. A. Cushman, of Santa Ana, testified that he had examined the boy on the day following the alleged beating and had found the same results as had Dr. Truxaw.

Ray Addison, county superintendent of schools, S. B. Kaufman, deputy district attorney, and Mrs. Hogan all testified as to the child's condition.

Evidence heard at the afternoon session revealed that Davis had held young Hogan while Bonney whipped him with a board paddle. The boy testified that he had fallen to the floor with pain and that Davis had jerked him to his feet to continue the beating.

Evelyn Lewis, teacher in the Fremont school, testified that she had heard the spanking in the next room and that the boy's behavior in her room had been satisfactory.

Adelaide Price, school nurse, declared that she had examined the boy following the asserted beating and that he had been able to walk all right and seemed to be in good health.

Franklin Mattox, teacher, testified that Robert's behavior had not been good in school and that he was a poor influence on the rest of the class.

BISHOP CANNON HALTS EFFORTS OF COMMITTEE

Aide to Clergyman Refuses to Testify When Called Before Nye

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(UP)—Efforts of the Nye committee of the senate, attempting to investigate activities of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in the 1928 presidential campaign, failed at least temporarily today when Miss Ada Burroughs, an aide to the bishop, refused to testify.

After a half hour parrying, the hearing closed, without overcoming Miss Burroughs' refusal to answer questions on the ground that the committee was without authority.

After being once excused Miss Burroughs was called back by the committee and told that her refusal to answer might lead to prosecution and punishment.

"You are willing to stand on that position, notwithstanding that prosecution may follow?" Senator Dill asked.

"I stand on my statement," said Miss Burroughs.

"We want you to be under no illusion," Dill replied, "and to know that you understand prosecution may follow."

"I understand," Miss Burroughs said.

Efforts were made to question Miss Burroughs on circumstances surrounding the report made by the Cannon committee accounting for $17,000 of the $64,000 contribution of E. C. Jameson, New York financier to Cannon.

Nye read to Miss Burroughs a letter written by Cannon in September, 1928, soliciting funds from Jameson and asked her if she could recognize the Bishop's signature.

"I decline to answer," she replied.

"I will hand the letter to you and ask the question again," Nye said.

Miss Burroughs looked at the letter and said she had nothing to add to her previous statement.

Solons Won't Ask Pardon For Mooney

SACRAMENTO, May 7.—(UP)—The state legislature will not ask Gov. Rolph to pardon Tom Mooney.

A resolution by Assemblyman James Quigley, San Francisco, seeking such action, failed of approval in the assembly judiciary committee last night.

The Rev. Robert Whittaker, Los Angeles minister, spoke in behalf of Mooney, who is now serving a life sentence for participation in the San Francisco preparedness day bombing.

"Patriotic hysteria convicted Mooney and commercial considerations are keeping him in prison," the Rev. Mr. Whittaker said.

IDAHO WOMAN BLUEBEARD IS STILL MISSING

Criminal Who Escaped From State Prison Eludes Police

BOISE, Idaho, May 7.—(UP)—The confident assurance of males that a mere woman could not elude a widespread systematic search, dwindled perceptibly as the third day since Mrs. Lyda Southard's escape came without a definite clue of her whereabouts.

This woman called the "female Bluebeard" by some and Idaho's Lucrèce Borgia by others, staged one of the most sensational penitentiary escapes in the history of the northwest Monday night.

Prison authorities were convinced she was not outside the walls by David Minton, ex-convict of Idaho and notorious automobile thief, pardoned three weeks ago.

That Minton and Mrs. Southard had been carrying on a surreptitious love affair inside the prison walls—this in spite of efforts to keep the sexes separated. He has good reason to believe that Minton actually broke into the penitentiary last Saturday and talked with the woman. He knows now that Minton and Mrs. Southard had been in constant communication over a long period. The convict threw notes over the wall to his clandestine sweetheart.

Nor is this all. The warden has learned on good evidence that the ladder Mrs. Southard dug up in the prison wall was manufactured in the prison blacksmith shop and buried by a prison guard, infatuated with the woman. He found out that other women prisoners helped Lyda on her way to freedom by playing the phonograph and singing loudly Monday night as the woman industriously sawed her cell bars.

75 Overcome When $5,000,000 Blaze Destroys Armory

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 7.—(UP)—Seventy-five firemen were overcome by smoke in fighting a $5,000,000 fire which, early today, destroyed a five story Graystone armory and a church in the Masten hill section.

Numerous houses in the area of the fire were damaged and 10,000 rounds of small ammunition, stored in the armory, were set off by the flames. Police kept the crowd as far away from the scene as possible because of the flying bullets and no injuries, other than those suffered by firemen, were reported.

The Armory, headquarters of the 10th regiment, covered two city blocks and the American Scandinavian church, which was destroyed, was five blocks from the massive, fort-like structure.

WORKMAN KILLED
SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., May 7.—(UP)—Alfred Storey, 32, Alameda, was dead today of injuries received when he was painting a Southern Pacific bridge here.

Jackson Eymen, of Colorado, was seriously injured in the crash, and two other workmen were slightly hurt. The accidental death was to be the subject of a coroner's inquest.

BRITISH SPEED FLIER PASSES IN ALDERSHOT

Flight Lieutenant Waghorn Dies of Injuries He Sustained in Crash

ALDERSHOT, Eng., May 7.—(UP)—Flight lieutenant M. R. D. Waghorn, one of Britain's foremost speed fliers, died today in Cambridge Military hospital.

Waghorn was injured day before yesterday in a parachute leap from a plane near Aldershot.

Waghorn and E. R. D. Alexander, a civilian test pilot, were aloft in a two seated bombing plane, which they were testing, when it became disabled. Both men leaped, but were injured in the parachute landing.

The plane crashed, upside down, on a factory roof at Farnborough, Hampshire, not far from here.

Waghorn suffered a fractured thigh, a broken ankle and other injuries. He underwent an operation at the hospital.

Winner of the 1929 Schneider Cup seaplane races, Waghorn was one of Britain's best known aviators.

He set a new speed record for planes when he flashed over the Schneider Cup course at Calshot at 228.63 miles an hour, only to see his flying mate, R. L. R. Atcherly, break the mark a few hours later in a one lap trial at the rate of 332 miles an hour.

Waghorn was nicknamed "Daisy"—a name which was originated by his comrades during the World War. The flier, who saw service in the Royal Air Force, was forced down in a marsh one day. In his report he failed to describe the nature of the ground on which he had been forced down, and was reprimanded by his superiors. Within a few days he was forced down again and on that occasion his report included a glowing description of a daisy field in which he had landed.

CANNON AT SESSION OF NYE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(UP)—Bishop James Cannon jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, came on crutches today to the meeting of the Nye committee investigating campaign expenditures which is to examine witnesses as to Cannon's activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

Cannon, previously a democrat, was active against Alfred E. Smith for president.

The bishop, who yesterday said he would attend the hearing if invited, came today without invitation or subpoena. He was given a seat at the committee table.

FORMER FOOTBALL STAR LEAVES CELL

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, May 7.—(UP)—Johnny Hawkins, former University of California, football star, prepared today to leave prison after serving more than two years for robbery.

Hawkins will be released on parole tomorrow. He entered prison in January, 1929, after being convicted of robbing 27 Los Angeles homes.

Officials also announced Clara Phillips, "hammer murderers," who has been ill with influenza, has been released from the prison hospital.

Cafe Patrons Leave When Snakes Enter

NEW ORLEANS, May 7.—(UP)—Two large box constrictors, one 11 feet long, terrorized guests at a small hotel in the old French quarter early today, caused evacuation of a cafe, and held police at bay for more than an hour.

The larger reptile coiled itself around a ventilator shaft in the cafe, after sending patrons, proprietor and waiters scrambling to the exits. Manuel Esquivel, Belize, Bahama, owner of the snakes, appeared and lassoed the reptile.

The smaller snake, more than five feet long, crawled through the hotel corridors and onto the roof. It was induced back into its box by Esquivel, who "charmed" it.

BUTLER HAITI CASE DROPPED BY SECRETARY

Minister's Explanation of His Remarks Terminates Incident

WASHINGTON, May 7.—(UP)—Secretary of State Stimson said today he had informed Haitian Minister Dante Bellegarde that the latter's explanation of his reported remarks regarding Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler's capture of a fort in Haiti satisfactorily terminated the incident.

Stimson would not make public Bellegarde's letter to him or his reply.

The incident arose two weeks ago when Butler called to the attention of Secretary of the Navy Adams a newspaper article which quoted Bellegarde as saying that Fort Riviere in Haiti, which Butler received the congressional medal for capturing, did not exist.

Bellegarde explained to newspapermen that he had not intended to disparage Butler's accomplishments and that what he really said was that Fort Riviere was unknown to the Haitians. The Haitian minister was understood to have made virtually the same explanation to Stimson.

Stimson said that although he had informed the navy department that Bellegarde's explanation satisfactorily terminated the incident, he did not write the navy a letter. It was assumed he spoke personally with Secretary Adams.

CHICAGO EXCHANGE EXPELLS 2 MEMBERS

CHICAGO, May 7.—(UP)—The board of directors of the Chicago Stock exchange expelled two members today after a hearing which lasted until 2 a. m.

The expelled members were Charles L. Trumbull, a partner in Trumbull, Wardell & Company, who was that firm's member of the exchange, and Harvey Cory, an independent broker, who had a working agreement with Trumbull's firm.

Both brokers were accused of making fictitious transactions in which no change of stock ownership was involved. Trumbull also was charged with reckless and unbusinesslike conduct.

Editor Says Plan Would Clean House

Veteran Publisher Asserts Present Method Breeds Incompetency

LAGUNA BEACH, May 7.—Abolition of direct election of public officials and the substitution of the managerial form of administration was advocated by S. S. McClure, veteran editor, in an address before 128 newspapermen, political leaders and others at a banquet here last night.

The meeting last night was complimentary to McClure, and was in the form of a welcome to California.

"The Science of Human Organization" was the subject of McClure's address which followed a dinner at Hotel Laguna. Newspaper men representing 45 Southern California newspapers were present in addition to a number of political leaders.

McClure's address in full follows: The Act of Congress, March 4, 1929, made an appropriation for a thorough investigation into the enforcement of the prohibition laws, together with the enforcement of other laws, or as you state in your message to congress, January 20, 1931, in transmitting the report on the enforcement of the prohibition laws and other "criminal laws."

This is the second time, I believe, that the United States has undertaken a nation-wide investigation on the non-enforcement of law. The first investigation was made over 20 years ago when the federal government made an investigation of the White Slave traffic in relation to immigration and the report was published December 10, 1909. It was the most appalling document ever issued by our government.

Between 1895 and 1925 McClure's magazine spent upwards of $200,000 investigating corrupt state and city governments and of the results in their failure to administer justice and prevent crime. This work was done by a staff of writers including the late President Roosevelt, Ida M. Tarbell, Lincoln Steffens, Burton J. Hendrick, Ray Stannard Baker, Josiah Flint Willard, George Kibbe Turner and George Kennan.

Further, I spent nearly five years studying the relation of governments of many nations to the well-being of peoples including, above all, the protection of their citizens from criminals and also the machinery of governments for the prevention of crime.

From this mass of material I hope to show: Why Lincoln, in his speech on January 27, 1837, said: "I hope I am over-weighed, but if I am not, there is even now something of ill omen amongst us. I mean the increasing disregard for law which pervades the country from New England to Louisiana."

"The lawless in spirit are encouraged to become lawless in practice; and having been used to no restraint but dread of punishment, they thus become absolutely unrestrained."

Why Mr. Wickersham in a speech in Cincinnati, said: "Abundant evidence has been (Continued on Page 2)

INVESTIGATION OF AIR CRASH STARTS

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—(UP)—An investigation of the airplane crash which caused the death of two pilots, Arthur Dillar Starbuck and Charles R. Parmelee, Tuesday night, was being conducted today by officials of the Pacific Air transport to determine the specific cause.

The plane, which carried mail from San Diego for Los Angeles on its fatal trip, was said to have been heard over the United airport at 11:30 p. m. Tuesday, the time it was scheduled to arrive.

The ceiling, however, at that time was only 600 feet and the fog was said to have extended to an altitude of 2200 feet which would have made it impossible for the pilots to see the strong stone lights which under ordinary conditions guide the fliers to the landing field at night.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

HOLLYWOOD, May 7.—[To the Editor of The Register:] Uncle Andy Mellon don't blather at these luncheon club fiestas very often, and when he does things ain't looking so good and he is sent in as a pinch hitter to bat for confidence. But even him they couldn't get to promise us much. He did say that things were worse in '73. Now, if we can get much nourishment out of that, let's do it. Course Mr. Mellon feels mighty bad over his books not balancing for the first time in years—we are just nine hundred million in the red, so you can't blame him very much for not feeling any too pert. Think of how you'd feel if you counted up at night and found you was nine hundred million short.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

EFFORTS MADE FOR RELEASE OF GARRISON

San Diego Police, However, Expect to File Murder Charges

SAN DIEGO, May 7.—(UP)—An effort to secure the release of Moss Edward Garrison, held for questioning into the fatal stabbing of Hazel Bradshaw, 22, was made today when Attorney A. Fairchild said he would seek a writ of habeas corpus.

Garrison has been held by police since the murder of Miss Bradshaw early Sunday, and no complaint has been issued against him.

Captain Paul Hayes, however, announced that he would seek a complaint charging Garrison with murder following a coroner's inquest next Monday.

"By that time I hope to have enough evidence to hold him," Captain Hayes said.

The only evidence uncovered against Garrison has been of a circumstantial nature, Captain Hayes admitted, and the man has withstood attempts to catch him in falsehoods.

He still contends he took Miss Bradshaw home from a motion picture show shortly before midnight Saturday, and then took a street car to his home.

Police, however, announced they had found a young man and a girl who were parked near the Indian village in Balboa Park where the murder took place, who declared they saw a man resembling Garrison leave the vicinity at approximately the hour of the crime.

Garrison has admitted that he walked through the village with Miss Bradshaw enroute to her home, but the couple, whose names were withheld, contended they saw only one person, police said.

Noted Scientist May Not Recover Use of His Limbs

PASADENA, Calif., May 7.—(UP)—Dr. Albert A. Michelson, veteran scientist, is suffering from partial paralysis, Dr. Walter P. Bliss, an attending physician, admitted today. Should he survive his pread illness, brought on by overwork, he may not recover the use of his limbs, Bliss said.

Dr. Michelson, who is 73, was not considered worse today but Mrs. Michelson admitted his health was far from satisfactory.

The physicist continues to express a keen interest in the work of his associates who are carrying on his experiments in measuring the speed of light. His physicians will not permit him to study problems connected with the experiment.

MEASURE IS REPORTED BY COMMITTEE

Bill Providing $400,000 For Santa Ana River Project Before House

SURE OF PASSAGE

Work on Upper Part of River Must Be Approved By County Supervisors

STATE AID for Santa Ana river and Los Angeles flood control to the extent of $400,000 for each project was recommended to the legislature today by the assembly ways and means committee, according to word received here today.

The sum will become available at the rate of $200,000 a year. The measure is one that was originally intended for San Bernardino county exclusively and which resulted in a Saturday afternoon conference in Santa Ana a few weeks ago between members of the board of supervisors, political leaders, Orange county representatives to the legislature and men active in water organizations of the county.

Following the conference a delegation was sent to Sacramento, composed of Engineer Paul Bailey, Attorney A. W. Rutan and Supervisor Willard Smith and an amendment to the bill was worked out and adopted whereby Orange and Riverside counties should have some word in the flood control program which the state appropriation was intended to finance.

Work done with the funds in building check dams for flood control on the upper Santa Ana is to be jointly approved by the boards of supervisors of Orange and Riverside counties. This is in accordance with work in the past when the two counties have worked together in a tri-county organization for work on the upper Santa Ana river. Orange county participated in construction of a diversion weir to the extent of approximately $30,000, which was also financed by appropriations from Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

The projected round the world flight by Hugh Herndon Jr., and Clyde Pangborn will start from Old Orchard, Me., in about three weeks, Herndon announced today.

The youthful fliers returned last night after a leisurely flight to Porto Rico, intended to try out their plane in preparation for the globe girdling attempt. They were accompanied on the trip by Capt. Lewis E. Yancey, veteran of one transatlantic air crossing, who acted as navigation instructor.

During their seven-day flight, the aviators estimated they flew 5500 miles, of which more than half was without sight of land because of clouds or water. It gave them ideal perspective in "blind flying" for their prospective world flight, however, they said.

Miss Bow is permitted only liquid food, and is given massages twice daily to quiet her nerves. Dr. J. Wesley Hommel and Dr. Victor Parkin will permit her no visitors, close friends, studio officials and newspapermen alike being barred from her room.

EDITOR SAYS PLAN WOULD CLEAN HOUSE

spread before the American people for years past, of the need of a thorough overhauling of our whole system of criminal justice. Every day furnishes examples of the absence of that wholesome respect for law which ought to be characteristic of a self-governing people.

"Where a tolerance of lawless conduct is developed among educated and prominent people, the axe has been laid at the root of the tree of social security."

Why Mr. Taft, while secretary of war, in an address to the students of Yale university, said:

"I grieve for my country to say that the administration of criminal law in all the states of this Union (there may be one or two exceptions) is a disgrace to our civilization."

Why President Elliot of Harvard, in an address in Carnegie Hall, December 16, 1908, said:

"The defenses of society against criminals have broken down. The impunity with which crimes of violence are committed is a disgrace to the country."

Why Frederick L. Hoffman, the noted statistician, who for many years has been collecting the number of murders in the United States, said:

"A point has been reached in our national life where no one is safe anywhere at any time. Murders are committed with fiendish cruelty and often with superhuman ingenuity which baffles the authorities and defeats the ends of justice."

I will show why Bishop Potter made these statements in a letter to Mayor Van Wyck November 15, 1900:

"For nowhere else on earth, I verily believe, does there exist such a situation as defiles and dishonors New York today. Vice exists in many cities—but the agents of the law are not, as here, fattening upon the fruits of its most loathsome and unnameable forms."

"A corrupt system, whose infamous details have been steadily uncovered, to our increasing horror and humiliation, was brazenly ignored by those who were fattening on its spoils, and the world was presented with the astounding spectacle of a great municipality whose civic mechanism was largely employed in trading in the bodies and souls of the defenseless."

This indictment of the Tammany Hall government of New York City has one mistake. New York was not the only city that fulfilled Bishop Potter's description. What he said was equally true of Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Minneapolis and San Francisco, which were also governed by criminals engaged in the liquor business, prostitution, white slavery and in every form of theft and oppression practiced by the Mafia in Sicily.

I will show how Tammany politicians made New York City the largest source of supply for white slaves in the world, surpassing the other great markets, viz: Paris and the cities of Austria and Russian Poland with Lemberg as the center.

I will show why it is impossible to secure "co-operation between the federal officers and all other law enforcement officers, state, county and municipal."

I hope to make it clear why no law interfering with crime can be enforced reasonably well and especially I will show how, under present conditions, the Eighteenth Amendment can be no better enforced than, say, the law against murder.

I believe I can show the cause of the excessive amount of lawlessness in the United States and the remedy therefor.

In short, I propose to demonstrate the science of successful human organization is deduced by making a survey of the phenomena of successful organization. These phenomena are three in number:

1st. The group of people appoint a committee and under no circumstances ever select any officials, experts or employees.

2nd. It is always found that a considerable proportion of the electorate do not vote.

3rd. The acts of the group are determined invariably by one man on a small group of men.

If a mass meeting is called for any purpose, after discussion—if the people present decide to carry on—they always appoint a committee. It is the natural, universal method of organizing.

The only successful method whereby a mass of people, hundreds, thousands or millions, can organize to carry on a common enterprise, is to appoint a committee, subject to definite terms of service and to certain policies described in charters or constitutions, which will appoint permanent and qualified officials, who in turn will employ qualified experts to carry on the common enterprise. This is the method of business organization used by all corporations the world over, and by the leading civilized nations in organizing their governments. The exceptions are mainly the United States and the nations of the American continent south of the United States who have imitated the method of organization used by the people of the United States.

Let us consider the method of organizing governments in northern Europe:

In these nations all corporate enterprises—and all governments, follow the simple formula familiar to us in corporations, whose appointments, by the stockholders, consist of a committee called a board of directors, who are subject to the control of certain well-defined policies, elected for definite terms, subject in general to the stockholders, and who create and supervise the great body of officials, experts and other employees who carry on the business owned and controlled by the body of incorporated stockholders.

The railroads of the United States furnish an understandable illustration of this method of organizing a government.

The English people organize their national government by using this identical method. The people elect a committee called parliament, and just as the stockholders of a corporation elect one but directors, so the English people in organizing their national government elect one but members of parliament, to whom, subject to the unwritten constitution of England, is entrusted the exercise of full authority to serve the purpose of government for the people of England. In the same way the inhabitants of an English city elect a committee called the council, and do not appoint other officials of any kind. The council carries on just like a board of directors. Fundamentally and identically the national and city governments of the other nations of northwestern Europe organize their governments in the same way.

It will thus be seen that the framework of the English national government and English city government are identical, and that they are identical also with the method of corporations organizing their management. Just as the stockholders of a corporation elect one but a board of directors, so the citizens of an English city elect what corresponds exactly to a board of directors.

At the time of the American Revolution, the state of England was deplorable. Crime was rampant, footpads terrorized the roads, highwaymen infested the streets, burglaries were of constant occurrence, river thieves on the Thames committed depredations wholesale, watchmen appointed by sheriffs were useless, inadequate, inefficient and corrupt, acting often as accessories in adding and abetting crime. This went on year after year. Their gangsters were called Mohawks.

At the beginning of the 19th century, it was computed that there was one criminal to every 22 of the population. In 1829, Sir Robert Peel organized the Metropolitan Police force. In 1938, the Molesworth commission, corresponding very much to the Wickersham commission, made a nation-wide study of crime, non-enforcement of law, and especially of municipal corporations. As a result of this investigation, Lord John Russell, in June, 1835, brought a bill into parliament that wiped out all the various unworkable city charters and created a simple charter by which citizens elected simply the council, an exact model of parliament.

There probably is not a single form of bad administration, bungling, waste and corruption, against which people in the United States have ever struggled but what similar conditions could have been found in Great Britain. This reform bill, however, simplifying the framework of the city government, wrought a marvelous change. It acted precisely like a board of directors of a corporation, and developed the marvelous system of self-government that reduced crime, increased justice and security to such an extent that corruption and inefficiency in local government in England is almost unknown.

The condition of Germany was much more difficult of solution than that of England.

Prussia was under the domination of Napoleon. There appeared a man named Stein, who saw swift destruction coming unless the system of government was greatly changed, even in some of its foundations.

On the mass of unreason in the city organizations, Stein had thought for years. Finally he thought out a system, the result of which is seen today in city government in Germany—everything managed on business principles; and all the affairs of the city conducted, with the aid of the burgher councils, quietly and with an efficiency and economy such as in American cities is rarely, if ever, seen.

On the 19th of November, 1808, Stein's plan became a law.

The municipal system of Prussia and of Germany has, indeed, been largely developed to meet new needs since Stein's time; but its cornerstones, then as now, is the right of the people to think and act upon their own local interests.

Here again the system was a natural development of the New England town government, and today the citizens of a German city elect only the council, which acts precisely as a board of directors does for a corporation.

To illustrate, let us take a typical city of northwestern Europe—Frankfurt in Germany.

First, the election. Once in six years the voters go to the polls in their respective wards. There are no printed tickets; every man makes his own ticket. Of course in most cases there will be some outstanding figure in favor of the voters; probably the councilman already in office will command the most support. Then within eight days the voters go again to the polls and vote for the choice between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes. There are no political parties, and no other electoral activity preceding these two pollings; the ultimate ticket contains two names. This simple election happens once in six years.

When the newly elected councilman takes his place with his fellow councilmen, his experience is very much like that when a man becomes a member of a board of directors of a railroad. That is, he finds the entire personnel that carries on the government fully organized.

Mayor Addicks of Frankfurt, when I was there in 1910, was toward the end of his second 12-year term. All the mayors and other city officials in Germany (before the war) were employed precisely as we employ the president and other officials, experts and employees for a railroad.

To have work done well, it is necessary that men be attracted to it just as they are, we will say, to a railroad, to make a life career. This is only possible in city government if it is organized just like a corporation. To get good government, everything is put in a nut-shell by the late Dr. Charles W. Elliot, who was not only president emeritus of Harvard university but citizen pre-eminent of the United States, in a paper entitled "One Remedy for Municipal Misgovernment," which said:

"Before municipal government can be set right in the United States, municipal service must be made a life career for self-respecting young Americans; that is, it must be made attractive to well-trained young men to enter in it, to learn it thoroughly, and to win advancement in it by their fidelity and ability."

The governments in England and Germany were not modeled upon our New England town governments, but they are practically identical with New England town government where the people elected three to five, didn't call them directors, didn't call them councilmen, but called them selectmen, but they were identical with the council or board of directors in their power, and this worked very well, but along about the time that the English were struggling for a reform in city government, our American cities began to abandon this simple, natural form, and to model their government upon our federal government, even sometimes having two chambers, and of course, always electing the mayor distinct from the council, and going further and electing other officials, and from that time to the present, we have had a history of inefficiency, incompetency and corruption, and what all observers have called our failure of government.

MOTHER'S DAY CELEBRATED BY KIWANIS CLUB

Yesterday Mother's day was celebrated by the Santa Ana Kiwanis club; the wives and mothers of most of the members being the guests for the day.

Attorney M. B. Wellington was the speaker of the day, but the two man comedy act between William Tway defeated for the city council by John Knox "stole the show."

Bill Tway waved "eight pages of excerpts" from two of the mayor's speeches. The parody of one speech was made "B. E." before election and the other "A. E." after election.

The excerpts from the first speech delivered over KREG dealt with the mayor's castigation of secret societies, and the activities of the Good Government and Economy league which he linked in a general way with racketeering and for which he could find no language strong enough to denounce.

The excerpts from the second speech dealt with the mayor's surprise at the size of the protest vote and asked the good people who so voted to make known their wants and he would co-operate with them.

The mayor took it all in a good natured way and Rev. George Warner was then made to pay for cigars handed to members of the school board.

Homer Rodeheaver, evangelistic song leader of the Nazarene church, rendered a few beautiful selections.

PROPHECY HALTS WORK

BERLIN—(INS)—Frightened by the prophecy of a clairvoyant, who predicted a big mine disaster at Northberg in the Rhine provinces at a certain date, 300 miners of that coal mine failed to report for work on that day. In most cases the miners' wives stopped the alarm clocks, in order to prevent their husbands from waking up in time to go to a supposedly fatal job.

EARTHQUAKES DISCUSSED AT CLUB SESSION

FULLERTON, May 7.—"Earthquakes" provided the subject for an address by A. C. Terrill, Fullerton Junior college instructor, at the meeting of the Fullerton 20-30 club last night in McFarland's cafe.

Terrill told of various earthquakes in California and of conditions causing their activity. He stated that one of the largest faults or cracks in the world is located in California extending from San Francisco to the Salton sea.

The speaker explained that these rifts cause various formations including lakes and other depressions. The San Andreas lake, which was caused by the San Andreas rift, with two other lakes furnishes San Francisco's water supply.

"The earthquake in 1868 aroused considerable interest and the people built huge reservoirs up above the city to keep down the fire hazard, but this interest lagged and in 1906 the quake was again followed by a very disastrous fire," Terrill stated. "We should build with the idea that earthquakes will come. Experiments at Stanford are under way to show just what type of buildings go down quickest."

Plans for women's night program for the first meeting in July were started at the meeting last night. Floyd Kiker was in charge of the program.

ADVISE FINGER PRINTING FOR ALL RESIDENTS

At Tuesday night's meeting of Calumit camp No. 26, of the Spanish American War Veterans, there was launched a program to get the United States to have a law passed that would require every citizen, every alien and every other person living in this country to be properly registered and finger printed as a means of identification.

Resolutions were passed on the death of Comrade David W. Bouslog, of Anaheim, who died on April 22nd. The resignation of Patriotic Instructor David W. Shuford from his office, was accepted. A reception was given to the officer of the day, Captain Alfred F. Moulton, in honor of his appointment to a position on the police force.

The registration plan was talked on by Past Commanders Albert Orocott and C. E. Holloper, of Alhambra, camp No. 41, and they asked the moral support of Calumit camp in trying to get a resolution to that end passed by the department encampment to be held at Vallejo, May 17th to 20th.

The government finger printed its soldiers during the World war and recently two men were found dead in a hobo camp in the river bed and were identified through having been finger printed as soldiers in that war. Otherwise they probably would have remained unidentified.

Edward I. Moore, of Newport Beach, was elected to become a camp member on a transfer from Roosevelt camp No. 9, of Los Angeles.

Four past commanders were visitors, in the persons of Robert M. Keys, of Long Beach camp No. 94, Orlo Stanbro, of Warwick camp No. 100, and the two mentioned from Alhambra.

ESSAYS READ AT L. T. L. GATHERING

ORANGE, May 7.—Members of the Loyal Temperance Legion entertained a group of mothers and members of the local Women's Christian Temperance union yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of their leader, Mrs. Mary Gross, 445 North Center street.

May Kokeley presided at the business session. Attendance bows were given to Betty, Jean and Dorothy Gross, Jane and Ruth Smith, Betty Christian, Eleanor Bolm and May Kokeley. A number of essays on temperance were read.

Mrs. Minnie Neville, president of W. C. T. U., gave a talk and explained the attendance contest being put on by the state leader, Miss Parker Johnson, which is a lively fishing contest. Mrs. F. B. Scharr sang "The Nation's Slogan" and "Members." Mrs. Angeline Courtney told of the temperate rules of the late Coach Rockne. A social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting after which refreshments of punch and cake were served by the L. T. L. members. Parents and W. C. T. U. members present were Mesdames E. R. Grose, S. E. Dennis, George Bolm, F. B. Scharr, Minnie Neville, Angeline Courtney and the hostess.

Court Notes

Reports of inventory and appraisal in connection with three estates was filed yesterday with County Clerk J. M. Backs by Appraiser John N. Anderson. They were as follows: Robert Clement Masters, $12,713.26; Isaac N. Hart-horn, $1000; Fred T. Dimon, $1450.

Asserting that they separated eight months and 11 days after their marriage on November 27, 1930, and charging extreme cruelty, William L. Wybrant has brought suit for divorce from Dorothy M. Wybrant. He charges that his wife told him and others outside the family that she did not love him and only married him for a meal ticket; that she kept company after their marriage, with a former admirer; and that she directed "vile and opprobrious" epithets at him.

A damage suit asking judgment of $2000 for personal injuries, $304.50 for repairs to his car, and $112.50 for loss of use of his car, has been filed in superior court by George A. Stodart against the Franco-American Baking company, et al. The action is based on an auto crash last January at the intersection of Walker street and Crescent avenue, public highways in Orange county.

Judgment of $1000 plus interest and costs is sought in an action based on a promissory note that has been filed in superior court by M. E. Wardlow. The note was signed by Frank B. and Cecile L. Wilson, who are named among other defendants who it is said claim to have some interest in the property which was put up as security for the note. The court is also asked to foreclose a mortgage on property in Rancho Santiago de Santa Ana.

Foreclosure of a mechanic's lien on property near Modjeska's home and judgment of $63.60 for plumbing work is sought in a complaint that was filed yesterday in superior court by H. O. Ehlen against F. Holleran, et al.

Combining 10 claims for materials sold or services rendered, an action was filed yesterday in superior court by Carol F. King against C. M. Horn, et al, asking total judgment of $1059.73. Claims are itemized as follows: W. L. Birdwell, $41.25; Floyd I. Wilson, $24.75; C. Wilson, $27.50; C. W. Miller, $38.50; E. P. Mitchell, $23.36; Jesse Evans, $203.50; Ben Swartz, $209; James Ingram, $42; George F. King, $390; and E. K. Wood Lumber company, $84.87.

On a change of venue from Los Angeles county the divorce action filed by Rose Richards against Lester Richards, based on extreme cruelty, has been filed in Orange county. Mrs. Richards asks custody of their son and an award of $200 monthly for support. She states in papers filed in connection with the proceedings that her husband has an income of $500 monthly.

The close of the meeting after which refreshments of punch and cake were served by the L. T. L. members. Parents and W. C. T. U. members present were Mesdames E. R. Grose, S. E. Dennis, George Bolm, F. B. Scharr, Minnie Neville, Angeline Courtney and the hostess.

OFFICERS FOR P.-T. A. NAMED IN PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, May 7.—Mrs. Oscar Carlson, president of the Placentia P.-T. A., was re-elected at the May meeting held Tuesday. Other officers elected were Mrs. R. W. McCool, vice president; Mrs. R. H. White, secretary; Mrs. Ray Warden, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. H. Rymer, treasurer; Mrs. Cora Pickenpugh, parliamentarian; Mrs. Ira MacNames, historian, and Mrs.

J. B. Wilsey, auditor. Mrs. W. D. Solesbee presided in the absence of Mrs. Carlson.

At the executive board meeting the resignation of Mrs. Hollich as treasurer was accepted, and Mrs. Frank Rospay was appointed as treasurer for the remainder of the year.

Superintendent Glenn Riddlebarger announced the dates of the annual school exhibits, La Jolla and Baker street for May 19, Yorba and Richfield for May 20 and the Bradford avenue school for May 29. An exhibit of manual training work will also be given preceding the next P.-T. A. meeting, and at a meeting the girls of the domestic science class will give a style show, displaying the work they have done this year.

Mrs. McCool introduced the speaker of the afternoon, the Rev. Charles E. Fuller, pastor of Calvary church, who talked on "Character Building."

ORDER $75,959 IN BILLS FOR SCHOOLS PAID

Bills totaling $75,959.95 were audited and ordered paid by the Santa Ana board of education at its meeting last night in the city school administration offices. This amount covered accounts and salaries for the month of April. The expense bill for the month was divided among the following funds: Junior college, $9908.88; high school, $34,466.29; elementary, $28,012.09; and kindergarten, $3542.69. Other matters handled by the board last night included allowances of two minor extras in connection with the construction of the Frances Willard Junior High school plant; acceptance of the building, rejection of a claim for a plumbing extra, decision to reimburse funds stolen at the Julia Lathrop Junior high school, and ordering of a blanket burglary insurance policy on high school and administration office safes.

Extras allowed were $69 for a change in the boiler room ordered by the state inspector and $56 for rain gutters which had been approved by the board previously. The claim rejected was for $415, which was asked by Ora King, Alhambra, who had the plumbing contract, for two grease traps. The claim was rejected on the grounds that the specifications called for all work required by city ordinances and building requirements. This action was taken on a motion by Touel which was seconded by Hays. Formal acceptance of the new Junior high school plant followed inspection of the building by members of the board and the architect last week. The matter came before the board on a motion by Touel, seconded by Hays. Notices of completion were ordered filed.

Appropriation of $192.43 was sought in a request from H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia Lathrop Junior high school, to reimburse various student funds which were stolen when the office safe was burglarized several days ago. Funds included $118 for uniforms, and smaller amounts in accounts including welfare, petty cash, cafeteria, concert, picture and school clubs. The request was ordered granted in a motion by Hays seconded by Dr. Margaret Baker. Business Manager Newcom was instructed to place a blanket burglary insurance policy on all school safes, after a suggestion to this effect had been made by Assistant Superintendent Davis.

Members of the board agreed with a suggestion by Newcom, who is also secretary of the board, to waive reading of the minutes of previous meetings in the future, provided he would mail each member of the board a copy of the minutes. It was explained that this took time that could better be used for transacting business matters before the board. Dr. Davis declared that minutes of the board in the past had been kept in too much detail, and Secretary Newcom was instructed by the board to re-write minutes of the last two meetings.

Knights of Labor, a colored lodge, were granted permission to use the high school auditorium on May 13 for a concert upon payment of the regular rental, $35. The request, which had been presented in a communication from a committee of the lodge composed of D. J. Wallace, O. T. Deman and R. F. Cleveland, was granted on a motion of Dr. Baker seconded by Hays.

The board also authorized Newcom to act in connection with installation of an illuminated bulletin board at the Junior college after ascertaining wishes of school authorities in the matter. The board has been donated by a former graduating class but never installed.

A special bill of $255 for Santa Ana's share of printing safety instruction and examination booklets for use of shop pupils was authorized by the board. The printing of the booklets was recommended by shop instructors of the county in order that students taking shop work might be fully instructed on safety rules, and is the outgrowth of a damage suit in superior court in which a verdict against the Garden Grove school district was awarded for loss of fingers of one of the students in the shop. The supply printed is estimated to last three years.

Superintendent of Schools J. A. Cranston was not present at the board meeting last night. W. Maxwell Burke, board member, also was absent.

Plane Explosion Is Still Mystery

Although Joe Piper, San Diego county motorcycle officer, still insists he saw an airplane fall into the water off San Clemente Sunday night, search has failed to disclose any wreckage, with no fliers being reported missing today.

Henry Savage, Alameda flier, for whom search was made in the water off the Spanish Village yesterday, turned up at Clover field, it was learned this morning.

RESIGNATION OF PEARSON AS WHITTIER SCHOOL TRUSTEE IS PROTEST ON SCUDDER OUSTER

Benjamin F. Pearson, manager of Industrial Relations of the Southern California Edison company, today announced that he forwarded a letter of resignation as trustee of the Whittier State School for Boys, to Governor Rolph on April 13th, as a protest against the removal of Superintendent Scudder and the change in methods of that institution. Mr. Pearson has served as trustee for the Whittier school for 19 years, and aided in changing Whittier from a penal institution to a school.

The post, he wrote the governor, he said, is purely honorary but holding it implies an endorsement of the methods and procedure used, which he can no longer give. Governor Rolph has made no announcement of the resignation.

Mr. Pearson's announcement followed a meeting of the Psychopathic Association of Southern California which decided to hold a public dinner meeting in the near future for the purpose of making known details of administrative changes made at Whittier State school and other state institutions by Dr. J. M. Toner, director of state institutions, which the association contends will wreck these institutions. Elmer R. Murphey of Pasadena was named chairman to arrange for the dinner.

The speakers will include Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier college, Ed DeGroot, president, Los Angeles Rotary club and others.

In addition to the changes at Whittier, the speakers will discuss the dismissal of Superintendent Fred Bebergall of the State Home for the Blind at Oakland, that of Dr. Ritchey, superintendent of the State Insane Hospital at Mendocino, that of Dr. Leonard, superintendent of Pacific Colony, and that of Dr. Sisson, superintendent of the Napa Insane Hospital. These changes, the association charges, were all made for political reasons, and in every case the expert personnel of the institutions is being uprooted to make way for friends and supporters of Dr. Toner.

It is declared the rehabilitation programs which have been under way for years at these institutions, are being ruined by the changes and it is hoped to bring pressure upon Governor Rolph to induce him to remove Dr. Toner or force him to consider professional qualifications in his appointments, rather than politics.

The Psychopathic association will propose change in the present law to take these institutions out of politics. It also passed the following resolution:

WHEREAS numerous changes have been made recently in the personnel of state employees in institutions under the California State Department of Institutions, said changes being both in the superintendents of such institutions and in the subordinates thereof; AND WHEREAS such policy has removed from such institutions trained and experienced employees, and threatens to further invade the existing personnel of expert men and women now employed at such institutions;

AND WHEREAS the institutions affected by such changes are the state hospitals for the care and treatment of the insane, housing at the present time about fifteen thousand of such unfortunate, and also the corrective institutions for juvenile delinquents;

AND WHEREAS such changes tend to disrupt and to disturb such institutions and to interfere with the orderly and efficient care and treatment of the needy and unfortunate wards of the state; NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED by the Psychopathic association that it be its policy to oppose such changes.

Rodeheaver Will Present Concert

Homer Rodeheaver, evangelistic singer and musician, who for 20 years was song leader with the Billy Sunday party, will be presented in a concert at the Santa Ana Church of the Nazarene, Third and Bush streets at 8 o'clock tonight.

Rodeheaver is well known throughout the nation for his evangelistic work and radio concerts over the National Broadcasting company network.

The concert tonight is being sponsored by the Nazarene college of Pomona and is actively supported by members of the local congregation.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonard's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. McCoy Drug Co. says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile misery or money back.—Adv.

MAKE SPECIAL TRIP TO MEET TOASTMASTERS

Making a special trip from Santa Barbara to bring their appeal to the Santa Ana Toastmasters club, Elmer Smith, charter member of the Santa Barbara Toastmasters, and LeRoy Hunt, prominent worker in the club, were visitors at last night's meeting of the Santa Ana club, with an urgent invitation for co-operation in staging the next district meeting of Toastmasters International at Santa Barbara.

This next meeting would have been held in Santa Ana, according to schedule, but the local club waived its priority right to accommodate the Santa Barbara organization, which is anxious to secure the meeting as an added attraction at the time of the Spanish fiesta in August.

Under the guidance of Walter J. Ferris, as toastmaster, the visitors as well as the members enjoyed a program of great diversity and interest. E. N. Owen presented a study of the building of Solomon's temple, which he considered both from the viewpoint of its architectural and religious significance, and from the interest it bears to all members of Masonic bodies.

A. G. Green discussed the modern use of metals and metallic compounds in buildings, and predicted that the relics of our present civilization may be found in ages to come preserved through the use of non-corrosive materials which are now becoming available. Frank Humphrey gave a toast to birthdays.

Of exceptional interest was the speech by Wilfred Taylor, on "Cutting the Costs of a European Tour." Taylor's experience as related by him proved to be unique and picturesque in the extreme, and gave his hearers some entirely new angles on travel in the old world.

Board Accepts Resignation Of Miss Phillips

Resignation of Miss Elizabeth H. Phillips as a member of the office staff of the city school administration office was accepted last night by the Santa Ana board of education in a resolution adopted by the board, and Business Manager George Newcom, secretary to the board, was instructed to write her a letter expressing regret at loss of her services and conveying appreciation of her long service in city school work. The board also voted to grant Miss Phillips a one month vacation on pay.

Nail driven through Tire and Air Container is pulled out without loss of air. You'll never have another "flat" on the road with Air Containers in your tires.

When inflated the compression rubber under the cord insert, instantly seals punctures. Air Containers outlast the tire . . . often several times.

The country is waking up to Air Containers. 50,000 users a year ago. 250,000 users now. Faster and faster the growth . . . because more people realize the facts. Here they are:

Air Containers eliminate 90% of all punctures and blowouts. They add 30% to tire mileage. They pay for themselves . . . over and over.

WE'LL TAKE YOUR OLD TIRES IN TRADE

Don't confuse them with so-called "puncture-proof" tubes. The patented cord insert . . . developed by Goodrich . . . exclusive with Goodrich, gives the Air Container its ability to seal punctures on running wheels permanently.

This is the most sensational tire development in ten years. A year from now you won't be without it. Why do without it now? Come in and see how the Air Container works!

STATE ACTION ON PARK SITE IS QUESTIONED

Commenting on the proposed San Clemente state park site, after a letter from the state park commission was read at the afternoon session of the board of supervisors Tuesday advising that the state was allocating $200,000 for its share of the purchase of this tract, chairman John Mitchell, declared that he had investigated the site personally and could not conscientiously submit it to the people of the county on a bond election proposition.

Chairman Mitchell opened his remarks by declaring that he did not see how the state park commission could take this action when the county appraisal committee had brought in a report setting a value of only $229,700 on the property. It was offered at a price of $400,000 and the $200,000 which the state commission has allocated is the state half of the price.

The chairman further stated that his personal investigation of the site offered revealed the fact that at high tide the water came clear up to the railroad track in places and that there would be no place for the people there.

Another proposed state park site in Orange county, which has been accepted by the state park commission, is located near Huntington Beach in Mitchell's district. A condemnation suit brought by the state, is now pending in court in connection with this site.

The longest telephone call ever received in the state of Montana was recorded the other day when E. G. Toomey, a Helena lawyer, received a call from his brother in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Hoover's Aid In Oil Situation Is Asked by Council

LA HABRA, May 7.—A resolution asking the aid of President Hoover in clearing up the oil situation in regard to unemployment, was passed at the regular meeting of the city council of La Habra Tuesday evening.

The council decided to advertise for a four or six-cylinder car for police work. The new car will be kept for traffic work and for emergency calls of the night patrolman. Archie Collins, chief of police, will continue to use his own car for work and an allowance will be made for the use of it by the city.

A fund will be turned over to the employment committee for use in the present campaign in La Habra in cleaning up weeds and rubbish. Three hundred lots were posted by the city for weeds and a number of these have been cleaned up by property owners themselves, but many of the owners have already signified that they would be glad to turn the work over to the committee for unemployed. John Sanks, city engineer, will be in charge of the employment.

BAND WILL PLAY SCHUBERT MUSIC

The symphonic concert program which will be presented free to the public in the high school auditorium tonight by the Santa Ana Municipal band under D. C. Clanton, will offer an especially high-class entertainment for the pleasure of local music lovers.

A favorite with concert-goers the world over, the famous "Unfinished Symphony" of Franz Schubert will receive a reading by the band. This work is annually featured on the programs of foremost symphonic organizations. Its composer, Schubert, was one of the most picturesque and remarkable composers of all time, an Austrian by birth, and blessed with tremendous talent.

The American composers Hadley and Chadwick will be represented on tonight's band program, with numbers also to be programmed from Sibelius, Tschalkowsky and Mozart.

EVERY CITIZEN OF THE STATE is to be congratulated upon the enactment of California's NEW BUILDING and LOAN LAW

OUR 80 thousand savings customers will be interested to know how the new building and loan association act will affect the administration of Pacific States Savings.

The answer is: The new law largely reflects the present conservative practice of the State's strong and well-managed building and loan associations. It will cause only minor changes in the conduct of Pacific States Savings, for we have long since voluntarily incorporated in our financial structure and policies every major protection the law now decrees. In fact, in many instances our self-regulation is even more stringent than the new legal regulation. For instance:

Audits by Approved Public Accountants—The new law requires an independent audit of each association each year by approved Public Accountants, this audit to be in addition to the examinations by the Building and Loan Commissioner.

Pacific States Savings has for many years retained one of the best known firms of Certified Public Accountants and Bank Auditors for this purpose. In addition we conduct a continuous audit of all offices through our own corps of accountants and examiners.

Reports to the Building and Loan Commissioner—The new law makes it obligatory to furnish to the Building and Loan Commissioner reports of financial condition twice a year, and when otherwise called for.

Pacific States Savings has not merely furnished such reports to the Commissioner but has for years voluntarily published a Statement of Condition each month.

Increased Liquidity—The new law insures increased liquidity by requiring that at least 90% of all loans of each association be paid in regular installments and that at least 80% be paid in regular monthly installments.

Pacific States Savings exceeds these requirements. Moreover, our low loan rate, ultra-conservative appraisal practice and efficient collection system have for their prime purpose the maintenance of a notably healthy loan condition.

Controlled Bank Borrowing—The new law places a comprehensive control over the bank borrowing of associations.

Pacific States Savings has long made it a point to have no bank indebtedness, and thus keeps its bank credit fully available in case of need.

Definite Cash Reserve—The new law requires every association to maintain a definite reserve in cash or readily marketable bonds.

Pacific States Savings has long maintained an adequate voluntary cash reserve in addition to other cash on hand and a secondary reserve of approved bonds.

Control of Non-Liquid Assets—The new law limits the amount which an association may invest in office buildings, furniture and fixtures.

Pacific States Savings' Statement has long been free of such items.

Regulations for Savings—The new law, through regulations covering the payment of interest and the issuance of certificates for savings, makes a clear mark of distinction between bank and building and loan association functions.

With these regulations Pacific States Savings is in hearty accord. Our own restrictions on interest payments have been invoked to encourage the placement of funds here on an investment basis and to discourage their placement on a convenience or short term basis.

Every Citizen Will Benefit—Each individual Californian is to be congratulated upon the new building and loan code, for, directly or indirectly, each benefits from its constructive and foresighted provisions.

COMMENDATION IS DUE: Governor Rolph, who advocated and signed the new Act... the legislators who voted its enactment... Building and Loan Commissioner H. L. Carnahan who took an important part in its formulation... the many building and loan executives who fostered it and whose tireless efforts helped mould its provisions. California may well be commended on their work, for they have given this State the finest and most progressive building and loan code in America.

Strong as the new law is, it does not absolve Pacific States Savings from maintaining and ever strengthening the rigid self-rule which has resulted in our long and honorable record, and our attainment of national leadership in our field. We regard our position of First in the Nation in size, as an obligation to be First in Safety.

On the basis of our past record and present standing we invite those who put Safety before Yield to place large or small funds here, to earn a rate in line with other equally sound investments of comparable liquidity.

Decide Teachers Need Not Live In School District

PLACENTIA, May 7.—At a special meeting of the Placentia union grammar school board of trustees a delegation from the chamber of commerce requested the board to formulate a policy requiring new teachers to live in the district. The board members went into executive session and returned with the answer that it was their first duty to keep the teaching staff at a high standard and that to insist on this point would lower it. Preference is given, between teachers of equal abilities, to those who live nearby, but unless the district cares to develop attractive living facilities for teachers, it will be difficult to persuade them to live here, it was declared. There are at present nine living in the district, 20 own their own homes nearby or live with parents and 15 live at a distance.

SERVICES FOR YOUNG PEOPLE HELD TONIGHT

FULLERTON, May 7.—Thousands of people are headed for hell today because of their love for a few paltry, damnable dirty dollars. Evangelist John E. Brown of Arkansas said to a large congregation in the Fullerton tabernacle last night. His subject was "The Rich Fool," and his text was from St. Luke 12, "Thou fool, this night shall thy soul be required of thee." Evangelist Brown related the parable of the rich man who thought only of his huge crops, not knowing where to store them, and who decided to tear down his barns and build greater. God said to the man "Thou fool, this night shall thy soul be required of thee." The man thought that he had many years in which to live and enjoy his wealth, but he did not know that death awaited him the same night.

"He thought his wealth was his own to be used alone as he wished. He forgot that all on earth belongs to God. Some day you will be gone, sinner, and then who will fill your place and use your wealth? The poorest excuse this side of hell for a man to be living as a sinner, is by saying that he is too busy preparing for his children to be a Christian. He does not realize that the spiritual needs of his family come above everything else."

The services tonight will be especially for young people of the high school and junior college. The high school band and the junior college will provide music at the services, it was announced.

Services at Anaheim will start May 21, Perry Mathis is general chairman for the meetings in that city, it was announced.

Reports of the officers and chairmen of standing committees were given which showed splendid progress and entitled the local P. T. A. to be rated as a standard association. One interesting feature was the membership report, 109 paid up members being reported.

A short business session was held and the following was voted—no more popcicles to be sold at the school cafeteria; because many school children buy popcicles, in place of nourishing food for their noon luncheon; a flood light for the stage was donated to the main school; $5 to be given to the new Lindbergh school, towards purchasing a Lindbergh bust, and $5 to be given to the Mexican school for shrubbery.

May 20, the final study circle of this school year, will be held at the home of Mrs. Lou Slothover, with Mrs. E. A. Rea in charge of the study, "Character Training." A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

Fred Opp, a new member of the school board, introduced the new district superintendent, Henry Abrams, of Saticoy, who spoke of his pleasure in coming to Costa Mesa.

SCHOOL FACTS PRESENTED AT CHAMBER MEET

PLACENTIA, May 7.—Discussion of the school situation occupied the attention of members of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce yesterday, with Secretary T. E. Pickrell reading letters from Sacramento in regard to the Placentia school law.

Senator Edwards wrote that it would not be possible to do anything with the Little bill and Senator R. J. Wade doubted that it could be brought out on the floor. A letter from Assemblyman Ted Craig stated that the bill had been amended to read exactly like the former law with the exception that the appeal to withdraw from the state board of education, and that the distance clause is entirely eliminated.

Secretary Pickrell stated that with the removal of the distance clause the objection of the state board of education was removed, as this was its reason for refusing to allow Beverly Hills to withdraw.

S. James Tuffrey reported that Verling Kersey had called a meeting of high school and junior college professors in June to discuss the policies which they wish to formulate in regard to the formation and withdrawal of high school districts.

A. J. Olsen of Yorba Linda gave figures in regard to the cost of education in the various high schools of the county. This list showed Fullerton to have had an expenditure of about $400 per pupil, an amount which the trustees have reduced considerably this year, according to S. James Tuffrey.

INSTALMENT 28

Dan reported to Stephen, somewhat depressed, because he had returned, he thought, without a scintilla of worth while information. Stephen, however, thought otherwise. "I'll have to question Mrs. Merton again," he decided. He rang for Miss Ordway. "Telephone to Mrs. Merton," he ordered. "and tell her I wish she'd drop in here some day soon. Tell her I'd like the latest report on her health."

"What are you going to do?" McNamara asked.

"Hypnotize her again, of course. I've got to release her from the mental inhibition I set upon her in case of her adopted daughter. Otherwise she'll not talk."

A minute later Miss Ordway entered the room. "Mrs. Merton says she will be down in half an hour, Doctor."

Stephen smiled. "When she arrives, Dan, you step out into the nurse's office until I have her under control; then I'll admit you. I want you to take copious notes."

True to her promise, Mrs. Merton fluttered into Stephen's consultation room forty minutes later. "Oh, Doctor Burt," she whined, "I'm so glad you've sent for me. My insomnia is worse than ever," she wailed. Oh, Doctor, do you think I'm going crazy?"

"Not at all, not at all," he soothed her.

"You are excited over nothing. But you are in a highly nervous condition, of course, and until you have settled down it would be useless for me to attempt to examine you. If you could have a little nap for, say, half an hour on the couch in the next room, I'm sure you would awaken much refreshed."

"Oh, if I could only sleep half an hour, Doctor, if I only could!"

"Nonsense, my dear lady. We doctors have ways of inducing sleep even in the most obstinate cases of insomnia."

At his command she lay down on the couch and Stephen placed a cushion under her head. Employing the appropriate method of inducing hypnotic sleep, Stephen and her drowsy within three minutes. In ten minutes she had passed into a profound state and Stephen summoned McNamara, gave him a pad and pencil and silently indicated a chair.

Mrs. Merton, however, was aware of his presence. "Who's there?" she demanded in a drowsy tone.

"Doctor McNamara, Mrs. Merton. I have called him in to confer with me on your case."

"You are so kind, Doctor Burt," she said.

He resumed his passive stroking of her forehead and cheeks; in a low, monotonous tone he commanded her to answer all his questions. Then suddenly,

"Have you thought of your daughter, Penelope, of late?"

Grime of distress flitted across the beautiful face. "No distress or bad luck will attend the thinking while you are with me, understand? I command you to think about her—to remember her and to answer truthfully all my questions regarding her."

"Yes, Doctor."

"Why did you and Mr. Gatlin adopt her?"

"He wanted a baby and I couldn't give him one."

"Could you, if you had cared to?"

"Yes, Doctor. Her tone was very peevish."

"How old was she when you adopted her?"

"About a month."

"Where did you find her?"

"In the Infants' Shelter in San Francisco."

"Did you know who her parents were before you decided to adopt her?"

"Yes, Doctor. A Captain and Mrs. Robert E. Elliott."

"Why did the Elliotts abandon their baby?"

"The captain was killed by the Moros and his wife died in childbirth."

"Do you remember what branch of the service the captain was in?"

"He was a captain of cavalry."

"When you and Mr. Gatlin adopted Penelope, did you have any written record of her parentage?"

"We had a letter from the matron at the Infants' Shelter. And we had a letter from the doctor who attended Mrs. Elliott of St. Dunstan's hospital, and some letters from old neighbors of the Elliotts."

"Why did you get the letters from the old neighbors?"

"Theodore was concerned about the baby's ancestry."

"And was it the best?"

"I do not know. It satisfied him."

"What has become of all the records pertaining to Penelope?"

"I burned them."

"Why?"

"To keep Penelope from getting them."

"Then she wanted them, did she not?"

"Yes, Doctor. She demanded them."

"When was this?"

"On her eighteenth birthday."

"How did it happen that she waited until her eighteenth birthday before demanding them?"

"Up until then she thought she was our own flesh and blood."

"Ah! Why did you burn these records rather than give them to Penelope?"

"I hate her."

"When you refused to give them to her, what happened?"

"She cried and laughed and screamed and attacked me. She said she hated me. Finally she fainted, and I had the maid put her to bed and lock her in her room."

"Did you give Penelope any information at all regarding her parentage?"

There was a slight hesitation. "I lied to her. I wanted to hurt her because she wouldn't recognize my moral right to half of Theodore's estate. So I told her she had negro blood in her veins."

"What made you invent such a tale?"

"Penelope is a decided brunette. I thought even if she did not believe me, my statement would create in her mind a doubt and a fear that would drive her crazy."

"What happened after that, Mrs. Merton?"

"In the morning she was gone."

"How did she go?"

"She made a rope of sheets and blankets."

"Have you seen her since?"

"No."

"Is she dead?"

"I do not know, I hope so."

Stephen turned to Dan. "Any questions?"

McNamara shook his head owlishly. "I can revive most of the record—perhaps all of it. The captain's record is in the Army files; when he married, a notice of it appeared in the Army and Navy Journal; with that and what I can get out of the officers who soldiered with the captain, I'll get a pretty complete picture."

Stephen resumed his cross examination.

"Did you ever beat Penelope? Did you ever pinch her and slap her and lock her up?"

"Yes, Doctor."

"Wake the fiend up and send her home," McNamara roared.

"I will—as soon as I lock up her memory of Penelope," Stephen replied. He impressed upon her the fact that she was not ill at all. He commanded her very earnestly to forget that she had ever heard of him.

Then he awakened her, as McNamara departed, gave her a long look, felt her pulse, told her she was much improved and handed her some soda-salt tablets. She departed happy.

"Well," McNamara demanded, when he and Stephen found themselves alone again, "what do you think of that one for a hell-cat?"

"I do not think, Dan. We merely accept such people as we accept sunlight and rainfall."

"Do you think you'll see any more of this woman, Stephen?"

"I hope not. I hope the hypnotic suggestion I gave her is strong enough to overcome her acquired instinct for illness."

"Were the things she told you illuminating?"

"Very. I suspected most of them and she confirmed my suspicion. We know now that Penelope is of sound ancestry. Her father was not a neurotic. If he hadn't been a neurotic, if he hadn't been a neurotic, mal, gallant fellow and physically fit he would never have become a captain of cavalry. He was killed in action. But we have arrived at a startling point, Dan—the reason for the mental shock that gave Penelope a dissociated personality."

"I didn't get that, Stephen."

"For some reason best known to themselves, the Gatlins kept from Penelope the fact that she was not their own flesh and blood."

"However, while we have definitely established the date of the mental shock and the character of the shock, we have also established the causative factors leading up to the shock. Penelope had a most unhappy childhood. From earliest childhood she was the victim of bitter, rebellious thoughts. Then that baseball wrecked her nose. This was a mental and physical shock, because she lost aGtlin and of the Gatlins was another terrible shock, because she lost Gatlin and there was nobody to protect her. And Gatlin's death was a severe shock. Then, as she emerged from childhood into maidenhood, the knowledge that her nose made her hideous became an obsession."

"Now, Dan, by this time there was no further necessity for concealing the facts of the child's birth. Gatlin had left his entire estate in trust to Penelope, and on her eighteenth birthday she was free to do as she pleased. She could leave her hell-cat of an adopted mother now. She carried her own check book. The knowledge that she was not flesh and blood of the beloved Gatlin came as a terrible shock, and with it, of course, came other terrifying speculations."

"More piling on of the inferiority complex," McNamara interrupted. "And she cracked under it. Then she made up her mind to forget Mrs. Gatlin—and she did."

"A clear case of auto-hypnosis, Dan. Now you've got to run down the record of our Penelope and that of her parents. She must have it and it must be proof of the most convincing character, because such proof is necessary to her mental tranquility."

TWO PRETTY FACES
PARIS—(INS)—Elderly, obdurate authorities who decide what should go in the Museum of the Louvre, became lenient this week and allowed a pretty, young American girl to have her photograph snapped beside the world famous "Jocunde" by Leonardo da Vinci. The usual daily crowds were stopped within a few feet of the painting, the photographer appeared on the scene, shot the two lovely faces and it was all over in a minute. It is extremely difficult to obtain permission to use any kind of a kodak in the Louvre.

WEIGHT AS A MEASURE OF TIRE QUALITY IS NOT INCLUDED IN TABLE FOR TWO REASONS:

1st, Because no two tires of the same brand and size weight exactly alike, and

2nd, Because quality of rubber and cotton fabric used, rather than the compounded weight after being mixed with other ingredients is the determining factor. Reclaimed or second hand rubber weighs more than new rubber. Tires containing a large percentage of second hand rubber, therefore, weigh more than those made entirely of new rubber—even though the tires are exactly alike in size—so "Weight as a standard by which to measure tire quality MEANS NOTHING."

The TRAIL BLAZER is Ward's second quality tire. We frankly admit it. But—certain manufacturers and dealers, jealous of Ward's deserved preeminence in the tire industry, are making and publishing misleading statements about Ward's tires. They give specifications which are NOT those of Ward's tires; and they then compare the prices of their second quality tires with those of our first quality tires—the famous Riversides. The table above shows accurately the manner in which TRAIL BLAZERS compare in quality and in price with other well known makes.

These other misleading advertisements (and if they are not intended to deliberately fool tire consumers, what IS their purpose?) also say that "Mail Order tires are made by some unknown manufacturer..." Well, Ward's tires are made by one of the largest tire companies in the world; a company that has always been famous for the fine quality of its products! Here, therefore, is the correct story about Ward's TRAIL BLAZERS: They are every bit as good as other second quality tires (better than most, as the chart above will indicate), but they sell for less. Like all of Ward's tires, TRAIL BLAZERS are sold with an absolute guarantee of satisfactory service without limit as to time or mileage. If you do not need Riverside quality, buy Trail Blazers—and save more money!

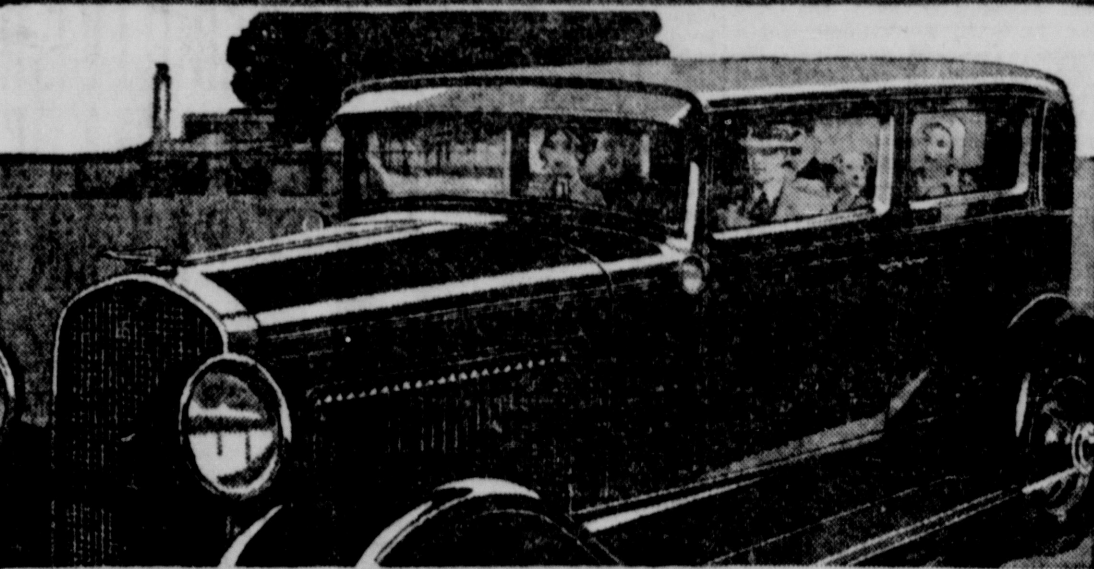

No Montgomery Ward tire advertisement is complete without mentioning Ward's famous first quality Riversides. Riverside tires are one of the best known brands in America. They have been sold for 19 years. They, too, are made by the same large tire manufacturer mentioned above. They are the finest quality it is possible to produce. They are backed by the most liberal tire guarantee ever written. And they sell for less than any first quality nationally advertised tire on the market! These sound like sensational claims. But Montgomery Ward & Co.—one of the largest and oldest merchandising institutions in the world—now in its 60th year in business—the originators of the "Satisfaction Guaranteed or your Money Back" guarantee—stands back of every claim made in this advertisement.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

After Jess Harper, Notre Dame's returned athletic chief, was graduated by the University of Chicago he took a job selling atlases in Missouri. . . he is not a Catholic. . . Harper says that when they first asked him to come to Notre Dame years ago, the subject of religion was never brought up. . . and nothing was said about it when he was recalled recently. . . Even the umpires are getting slightly dizzy as batters pile up in the big leagues. . . the other day Chapman and Byrd contested for occupancy of third base. . . and the ump called the wrong man out. . . later in the same inning the same two players collided while chasing a fly ball.

PRESSBOX ANGLE OF NO-HIT GAME

When Wesley Ferrell pitched his no-hit-no-run game against Bill Killefer's Brownies at Cleveland the other day, an argument was started in the press box, and perhaps it may have to go down through the ages unsettled.

It was like this: In the eighth inning, after Wes had pitched untouchable ball all the way, Rick Ferrell, catcher for the Brownies and brother of Wes, came to bat. Suppose Rick batted a nice clean base blow. Would the story, "Brother Spoils Ferrell's No-Hit Game With Single in Eighth" be a better yard than "Ferrell Enters Hall of Fame With No-Hit Game"? There was no halting, but the press box was about evenly divided on the subject.

SOCK! OH, GOSH!

Rick strode to the plate, took a healthy cut at the ball and a white streak went singing down past Third Baseman Johnny Burnett. It looked like a sure base hit. Then what seemed miraculous happened. Hill Hunnefeld darted over behind Burnett, flung himself at the ball and came up with it. The throw was impossible from that position, but Hunnefeld made it, right over his own left shoulder. It seemed, straight toward first base.

THE CHANCES HE TOOK

All through the game Ferrell worked a blazing fast ball. The Brownies set some kind of new world record for foul tips. Fast ball, curve, fast ball, fast ball, faster ball, still faster ball, curve, slow ball. In the late innings of the game Ferrell took terrific chances with that slow ball. In the eighth he grooved a first strike for Goose Goslin that just loafed its way right across the middle of the plate, waist high. The Goose watched it go.

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

A. A. Beck, former Pacific Coast league umpire, has organized the Hollywood Bloomer Girls' baseball team, wants to bring it here to play Santa Ana's Stars.

He promises five movie actresses—Priscilla Dean, Theda Bara, Virginia Pearson, Pauline Garon and Shannon Day—will appear with the club "in uniform."

Doubtful of public sentiment, the Stars are withholding decision.

Beck and his organization, planning a nationwide tour, want 70 per cent of the gate receipts. They think they could turn 'em away here.

Paul Jacques, the Saint track captain, has one consuming passion. It is to win the high jump in the Southern California Interscholastic track meet.

Although the greatest jumper in high school history here, holder of the institution's all-time record at 6 feet, 2 1/4 inches, Jacques has never been able to qualify for the All-Southern in other years.

Long Beach critics, confident he will fall again, are counting on their jumpers to beat him, help Long Beach win the championship that Santa Ana won without Jacques last year.

"Gee, they're going to have a swell team next year," says Al Rebohn, enthusiastically, of Santa Ana high school's prospects for 1931 football.

Maybe so, but I can't help thinking how much better they would be if Al Rebohn were going to be in the lineup, too.

George Pace of Anaheim and "Rube" Ellis of Whittier are the only holdover managers in the National Night Baseball league this year. The others know how football coaches feel.

"Pop" Warner thinks that Chuck Ehrhorn, the mountainous Santa Ana man who made All-Coast Preparatory league honors in 1926, will be the sweetest tackle on the coast for Stanford this year. Ehrhorn ran the captain of the Cardinal eleven, Ray Tandy, to the bench last year. He is 6 feet, 5 inches tall, weighs 210.

Sam Nau, Santa Ana orange grower, touring Europe, stopped at a little hamlet named Voss, Norway.

"See that little house up yonder?" asked a native. Well, that's where one of your great Americans was born. He's my cousin. His name is Rockne, Knute Rockne."

Age and weight, woman's profound secrets, don't mean a thing to American Lawn Tennis, the magazine. Biographical details regarding famous players are sketched without apology.

According to the data, Josephine Cruikshank, Santa Ana's fifth ranking American star, is 22, her height 5 feet, 6 inches, her weight 132.

Queen Helen, described as Helen Newington Wills Moody, is 26, 5 feet 7 1/2 inches, 126. Mrs. Anna Virginia McCune Harner is 29, 5 feet 4 inches, 116. Helen Hall Jacobs, a frequent Santa Ana visitor, is 23, 5 feet 4 inches, 145.

Bill Tilden is 33, 6 feet, 11 inches, 155. Karel Kozeluh is 35, 5 feet, 8 inches, 145. Other statistics: Johnny Doe, 22, 6 feet, 172; Frank Shields, 20, 6 feet, 188; Wilmer Allison, 27, 6 feet, 155; Ellsworth Vines, 20, 6 feet, 143; Berkeley, 22, 5 feet, 118.

Billy Wells, the English boxer, came to my corner to pay his respects. He has an engaging personality and, for a fighter, talks with astounding frankness.

He is honest enough to say he doesn't know how good he may be in his bout here tonight.

"I feel fine, my legs are good and I'm itching to go again but really I don't know how good I'll be," he said. "I haven't fought since Omaha last August you know, so and I may be pretty rusty."

"I've never seen this young fellow Smith but they tell me he's pretty stiff. Well, I'm down here to find out if I'm any good. I'm not going to kid anybody, especially myself. If I can't beat him I'm through. I'll quit voluntarily. They won't have to make me."

Wells worked out six rounds in the Santa Ana gym yesterday and fairly dazzled the railbirds who had never seen such class before. None of the local fighters would work out with him except Pat O'Hannigan, the Irish middleweight, who would fight a buzzsaw. O'Hannigan threw a hundred punches. Wells shed them all as easily as he would flick a fly off his newspaper.

Wells' reflections are interesting.

BILLY WELLS TOPS DELHI CARD 'Buzz' Arlett Sensation Of Majors

EX-OAK BLASTS FIFTH HOMER, PHILLIES WIN

BY COPELAND C. BURG

(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, May 7. — Out in California the sun is so full of vitamins and pep that lettuce and potatoes and even rare and exotic things, such as artichokes and good ballplayers, just pop out of the ground. Every day they get bigger and more noble to contemplate.

That brings us to today's sensation in baseball, Mr. "Buzz" Arlett of Oakland, California. Out there "Buzz" was playing ball when Jack London was a bartender and Helen Willis a mers cutter of paper dolls and he is as fatted as the Oakland estuary itself, but he had to join up with the Philadelphia Nationals to make the wide-world Arlett consensual.

"Buzz" cracked his fifth homer of the season with a man on base yesterday and won the ball game for the Phillies from the Boston Braves, 3 to 1. It was his fifth circuiter of the season and he now ranks first among the men of night, tied for honors with Hornsby of the Chicago Cubs and Stone of the Tigers, Babe Ruth, the non-Californian, only has four homers to his credit, polling one to aid the Yankees in making Washington how, 10 to 7. The triumph gave the series to the New Yorkers.

Gelbert tripled and scored on a single by Martin to snatch it, 6 to 5, for the St. Louis Cards from the Pirates in 13 innings. Grimes downed Meine on the mound.

Another Californian won the game for Brooklyn, 1 to 0, over the Giants. Ernesto Lombardi, just up center and scored Bressler in the from the coast, drove a long fly to seventh inning.

Al Simmons had the perfect day, getting five hits while the champion Athletics smashed the Red Sox, 10 to 3. Pex finally got a homer.

Roy Johnson, Tiger outfielder, whacked two doubles and drove in four runs to win for Detroit over the White Sox 9 to 1.

Other clubs were idle.

WHITNEY ENTRY IS PREAKNESS FAVORITE

BALTIMORE, May 7.—(UP)—

The Greenree stable's Twenty Grand and Equipoise, C. H. Whitney's hope for the Kentucky Derby title, probably will go to the post favorites when the annual Pimlico Preakness is run off here Saturday.

Twenty Grand and Equipoise are almost sure to compete in the Preakness, the final feature race before the blue ribbon event of the season—the Kentucky Derby. At present a field of at least nine and possibly a dozen loom as certain starters in the Preakness.

In addition to the two favorites the field probably will include Surf Board, Mate, Ladder, Clock Tower, Aegis, Rip Van Winkle, Mad Career, Anchors-Aweigh, Siskin and Soli Gills. The latter three will not compete if track conditions are not to their liking.

Card Editor Fears Break With U. S. C.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY,

May 7.—(UP)—An open break between Stanford and Southern California "is inevitable" if there are a few more incidents like Saturday's affair," according to an editorial written today in the Stanford Daily by Frank Whitely, undergraduate editor.

The editorial deplored the now notorious wrangle started by Coach Templeton of Stanford over the Hables-Williams-Shove incident, in the quarter-mile run and declared that such disputes have marred the dual meet for two years.

"They do not encourage a feeling of friendly rivalry," Whitely wrote.

Whitely contended himself with scoring the post-mortem acrimony, without taking sides in the track meet controversy.

ELEVEN SAINTS IN PREP MEET PRELIMINARIES

Competing in a total of 13 events eleven of Coach Clyde Patton's choicest Class A, B and C trackmen will represent Santa Ana high school in the annual Southern California Interscholastic meet preliminaries in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday.

These athletes qualified for the championship classic by placing in the Coast Preparatory league meet at Fullerton last Saturday.

Patton's complete entry list follows:

Class A—Captain Paul Jacques, high jump; Jim Daneri, discus and javelin; "Red" Kidder, 120-yard high hurdles; Lawrence Lutz, discus and javelin.

Class B—Walt Hendrie, 70-yard high hurdles; Frank Ronshold, 1320-yard run; Richards, pole vault; Lockhart, pole vault.

Class C—Veldre, broad jump and 120-yard low hurdles; Foster, 100-yard dash; Boyd, high jump.

Coach Patton also has entered Daneri in the broad jump as his "extra man" but Daneri's status in this event will not be determined until Saturday when the C. I. F. rules on the "extra man" provision which originally was intended to free for competition only athletes, such as hurdlers, who have been eliminated in their league meets through some technicality.

Outside of Jacques, who won the high jump in the Coast League final with a leap of more than 6 feet, 2 inches, none of the Saints are counted on for many points although Daneri and Lutz, strong-armed javelin throwers, have made the best distances in this event of any preppers in Southern California. Unfortunately, however, points do not count in the javelin in the Southern California championships, the event being only for exhibition purposes.

Fellow is a table showing records for the meet and the best records made by Southern California prep athletes this year:

OFFER RIVERS DIVODI MATCH AT BAY ARENA

Jimmie Rivers, local welterweight, today was tendered a 10-round main event at the East Bay Athletic club, Oakland, with Andy Divodi, New York fighter, according to Rivers' manager, Morgan Jones of Santa Ana.

Jones said the trans-bay arena offered Rivers three round-trip tickets to Oakland and $750 in cash for the bout.

Rivers probably will accept the match which would be held week after next.

Rivers, recent conqueror of Zenaydo Chavez here, fights the main event at the Main Street club in Los Angeles Saturday night, opposing Jack O'Brien who has never lost at the Main Street arena.

The Divodi bout, if accepted, will offer interesting comparisons as Divodi knocked out Chavez in one round in San Francisco last winter.

ST. LOUIS PROTEST DENIED BY HEYDLER

NEW YORK, May 7.—(UP)—

Appeal of the St. Louis Cardinals officials to replay the game of April 19, won by the Chicago Cubs, 4-1, was denied today by John A. Heydler, president of the National league.

The appeal was based on a protest against an alleged misinterpretation of rules by Umpire Moran. It was held by the protesting club that the umpire had applied the "momentarily held" rule on a fly-ball catch made by Outfielder Riggs Stephenson of the Cubs at an important period of the game. This rule had been suspended under ground rules adopted because of the overflow crowd.

Heydler held that the decision was one involving solely the accuracy of the umpire's judgment.

Mission City School Gets Grid, Track

SAN CLEMENTE, May 7.—Plans for the construction of a football field, running track, tennis court and landscaping of grounds at San Juan Capistrano Union high school have been approved by the school board, according to Dr. J. B. Lape, San Clemente, member of the board.

City Engineer W. A. Ayer of San Clemente did the engineering for the improvements. Contracts will be let in June, it is reported.

The Mission, erected in 1776, saw its first football game last year on an improvised field. Now a new field, just north of the main school building will be erected. A new gymnasium has just recently been completed. The tennis courts will be given concrete bases.

Plans call for the erection of a new entrance to the school, racing of grounds on which the school is built and then landscaping.

HOW TO END CONSTIPATION

If you want to get rid of constipation for good, you must cleanse the liver of its stored-up bile, and set it to working right. Remember it's a torpid, lazy liver clogged with bile that keeps you constipated. This surplus bile poisons your whole system, causing headaches, bad breath, sallow skin, sour stomach, gas, indigestion, dizzy spells or other disagreeable symptoms.

All that any ordinary physic does is to force a bowel movement without getting at the liver. What you really need is a thorough internal cleansing with Plantax, which brings out all the accumulated bile and other foul secretions.

Plantax is a most effective liver tonic compounded from the juices or extracts of harmless plants—remedies from Nature's own laboratory. It acts in a gentle, easy way—no irritation or weakening of the organs. Large bottle $1. On sale at all good drug stores.—Adv.

SALES EFFORT DECLARED NEEDED IN U. S. TODAY

ORANGE, May 7.—An analysis of the economic situation was given by Maurice Carasso, Los Angeles exporter and importer, at a meeting of the Lions club yesterday. Ivan Swanger was the program chairman.

Carasso declared that previous to the present depression which, he said was now in its twenty-first month, business men to a large extent, had depended on business going on its own momentum. Everything had gone along easily for a long period without particular effort, but now business men find they must go out after business.

In outlining the attributing causes of the present situation, Carasso said that over production of many staples had been brought about by a previous monopoly of the product. Coffee had been monopolized by Brazil, he said, until Bolivia and other countries began raising the plant with the consequence that now there was coffee of many new kinds on the market at a lowered price.

He told how the monopoly of rubber had led to the raising of rubber in the Philippines and other tropical countries and synthetic rubber was produced until rubber which sold for 65 cents a pound and which costs 16 cents is now sold for six cents a pound.

The speaker cited Germany as an example of a country which in a time of depression had created a market for its goods by making specialized efforts along this line. He pointed out that sales of tobacco, coco cola and chewing gum, three luxuries, had shown great increases in spite of a business depression because of the sales methods employed.

School Board To Elect Teachers For Year Tonight

EXPECT 250 TO BE APPOINTED TO POSITIONS

Election of teachers for next year to staff the Santa Ana schools will be considered at a special meeting of the Santa Ana board of education tonight. Recommendations will be made to the board by Dr. Percy Davis, assistant superintendent, who has been elected as superintendent of the school system, effective July 1, when Superintendent J. A. Cranston will close 25 years of service to Santa Ana schools in that capacity.

A total of 322 persons is required on the school staff, including principals, supervisors, teachers and nurses, according to Dr. Davis, and approximately 250 of this number will be selected tonight.

Teachers are given 20 days after being elected to accept or refuse the positions offered. At the end of that time any vacancies left will be filled.

The regular salary schedules now in effect will continue for next year, Dr. Davis said today.

Few changes are anticipated in the teaching staff.

MUSICIANS OF HIGH SCHOOLS TO ENTERTAIN

Musical organizations from six Orange county high schools will have charge of the program tomorrow night, which is known as High School night during the observance of music week, and an exceptionally fine musical "menu" is anticipated by those who know of the music work that is being accomplished in the county high schools. The program will be in the high school auditorium here.

Glee clubs, orchestras, choruses and soloists will combine in presenting a wide variety and range of music for the entertainment of the audience, which is expected will fill the auditorium to overflowing. The general program was arranged by Myrtle Martin, of the Santa Ana High school.

The program tonight, for the observance of Santa Ana night, presents the Santa Ana Municipal band, Cantando club and American Legion Auxiliary chorus, the outstanding musical organizations of the city. Programs begin at 7:45 p. m. in the high school auditorium.

NEW CHRISTIAN SCIENCE PUBLISHING HOUSE

BOYS' CHORUS SINGS BEFORE MORNING CLUB

A concert by the boys' chorus of Julia Lathrop Junior High school featured the program of the Santa Ana Breakfast club today. The chorus of 35 voices was directed by Edith Cornell and accompanied at the piano by Frances Hunt Beeson.

Numbers which the boys sang included "O Sole Mio," "Romeo in Georgia," "The River Song" and "When the Bloom is on the Sage." The chorus made a snappy appearance in green sweaters and white trousers. H. G. Nelson, school principal, was present.

A short history of the Santa Ana Municipal band and its activities in advertising Santa Ana was given by D. C. Clamfont, director, who was program chairman. He told how he was discouraged in his efforts to start a municipal band when he first came to Santa Ana in 1923 and how the publisher of The Register was the first to give him encouragement; also of some of the concert engagements the band had filled and of the thousands of people to whom it had played.

Credit for voting support of the band into the municipal budget was given to the church people of the city by Clamfont, who declared they were the type of people who stood for fine things in life.

The band director also stressed the need of a civic auditorium in Santa Ana, asserting that the city thus would be able to act as host to many conventions and that a fitting place would be provided for civic meetings. He also paid tribute to the efforts of Frances Hunt Beeson, of the city schools, for her assistance in making music week in Santa Ana a successful proposition.

A vote of thanks was extended by the club today to Norman Sprowl, Hunter Leach and Gene Kuhn, for their efforts as the committee in charge of the street breakfast last week.

$3,000,000 to Be Spent on New Home of Church Publications

BOSTON, Mass., May 7.—Continued growth of the activities of The Christian Science Publishing Society has necessitated expanded facilities. To meet this condition The Christian Science Board of Directors of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., will erect, as soon as plans and arrangements are completed, a new Publishing House.

Here provision will be made for the needs of The Christian Science Monitor, The Christian Science Journal, The Christian Science Sentinel and all other literature published by the Society.

The new building, which will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, will occupy approximately 50,000 square feet of ground bounded by Massachusetts Avenue, Norway, Falmouth and Clearway Streets, Back Bay. Operations are to be hastened in accord with the public and private building program which Mayor James M. Curley of Boston has been urging in conjunction with President Hoover's recommendations for relief of unemployment.

The structure will have a varying height. The Massachusetts Avenue end of the building, which will be used for offices, will be nine stories in height, while that part which is opposite The Mother Church will be three and four stories in height and in scale with this edifice.

The publishing building will be related in architectural style to the Mother Church, and its design has been influenced by the fact that in the future it probably will become one of a group of buildings which will surround and form a central architectural setting for the Church. It will be an all-stone building of the Italian Renaissance type, the lower story to be of granite and the upper stories of limestone.

Special attention will be given to the installation of modern heating and ventilating devices. The central plant will be housed in a building adapted to it, with an ornamental tower inclosing the stack, the tower to be of brick and stone conforming with the beauty and symmetry of the main building.

The building now occupied by The Christian Science Publishing Society, completed in 1908, will be used for the administration offices of the Mother Church.

The architect is Chester Lindsay Churchill, and with him is associated Lockwood-Greens Engineers, Inc., of Boston, which will have charge of the plant layout.

Ellis and his wife, Lillian Ellis, in which judgment for $10,429.10 is asked as damages.

Plaintiffs charge that the car driven by young Wakeham struck them as they reached the center of the street, without giving any signal or warning sound, and that he was operating the car negligently.

Mrs. Ellis was thrown over the hood of the car and to the pavement, causing concussion of the brain and numerous injuries to her left leg and foot.

Musical numbers consisted of vocal solos by Miss Lucille Bush, accompanied by Miss Reva Hawkins; old-fashioned dance numbers by a trio comprising Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fields and Herman Bowie, and readings by Miss Lila Barbee, all of Fullerton.

The architect is Chester Lindsay Churchill, and with him is associated Lockwood-Greens Engineers, Inc., of Boston, which will have charge of the plant layout.

Elmer Steffensen made an impromptu speech commending the work of the pastor and called for a rising vote of thanks for both the Rev. and Mrs. Owens, which was given in an enthusiastic manner.

The meeting was an annual affair during which reports of officers and auxiliary organizations of the church were heard. The reports revealed that the congregation gave $20,500 during the year just ended, of which $9300 was for benevolences and $11,200 for

Charges Fraud In Suit For $7050

Charging misrepresentation and fraud, suit was filed yesterday by Ann Swartz against Charles F. Burns and others, in which she asks judgment of $7050.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendants persuaded her to exchange a $7000 mortgage for stock in a corporation which they represented as being a sound concern and whose stock was going to increase in value rapidly, but that the balance sheet of the concern showed more liabilities than assets and that the stock was worthless. She also stated she relied on the representations of the defendants and as a consequence has been damaged in the sum sought. Fergy, Reinhaus and Fergy are attorneys for the plaintiff.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE - WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute.—Adv.

Little Friends Invited To Dale Cooper's Birthday Party

Master Dale Cooper's seventh birthday, which was an event of recent date, was taken by his mother, Mrs. G. F. Cooper, as an opportunity for a party for his young friends, who were invited to the Cooper home at 408 South Garnsey street, for a happy afternoon.

Various games which children most enjoy were played on the lawn under the direction of Mrs. Cooper, assisted by Mrs. Phil Hunt, who also aided at the refreshment hour when the lively children were assembled in the dining room. The table was charming with its great cluster of sweet peas whose bright colors were repeated in various decorative details. These included tapering green candles, the pretty yellow and green glassware used, and the pink iced birthday cake with seven pale green candles. Ice cream was served with the cake.

Master Dale received many attractive gifts from his playmates, who were Rae Foust Jr., Jack Foust, Bruce Matthews, Vernon Hancock, Patricia Hancock, Maxine Hancock, Beverly Givens, Maxine Kaufman, Jack Givens, Donnie Givens, "Gene" Pagenkopp, Billy Jouvett, June Trustee, Lloyd Brown, Pauline Jenson, Celene Mason, Lorraine Mason, June June Mustard, Earl Mustard, Donald McCune, Bobby Isenor, Bobby Gillette, Gloria Gillette and Raymond Vernon.

Mrs. Rae Foust and Mrs. Paul Gillette were among the mothers who shared the pleasure of watching the children at their play with Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Hunt.

Annual Dorcas Club Banquet Held In New Building

Mothers and daughters of the Dorcas club of the First Christian church held their annual banquet Monday evening and the gathering was marked by special significance because never before had so charming a setting been afforded for the occasion as the new educational building of the church.

A modernistic theme was carried out with black and silver as the dominating color motif. Tables radiated from one central speaker's table, and were lighted with silver candles in black holders. Flowers used were colorful tulips arranged in black bowls. In keeping with the theme for the evening's toast, "The Perfect Flower." The tulip was chosen as the flower for this year.

At each mother's place was a tulip bearing a filmy handkerchief. Favors for daughters present were small booklets bearing roll call of members of the club, and other items of special interest. This was dedicated to Mrs. A. W. Gerard, the club mother.

The president of the Dorcas club, Miss Gladys Murane, gave the welcome address, and introduced the mothers. Invocation was given by Miss Gladys Mills. Miss Martha Ramond was toastmistress and introduced Miss Leona Leeding, who gave a piano solo.

Following a reading by Miss Mary Arnold, Mrs. Charles Johnson gave a toast, "The Bud." A toast to "The Flower" was presented by Miss Bessie Calhoun. The address of the evening followed, and was made by Mrs. F. T. Porter, wife of the former pastor of the Christian church here, and now of Los Angeles.

Throughout the evening parodies on various well-known songs, written by Mrs. George Gould, were sung, with Miss Sue Parsons as the leader. In conclusion, "The End of a Perfect Day" was sung by the assembled group.

Plans Are Completed For Auxiliary Glee Club Dance

Such friendly interest has been shown in plans for the May dance to be given tomorrow night in Ebell clubhouse by the American Legion Auxiliary Glee club, that everything points to a record breaking crowd for the evening, according to those who have had ticket sales in charge.

The ball room promises to be a popular spot indeed, and to increase the pleasure of the dancers will be the program of lively modern music by the Morgan orchestra, a general feature in this community. Such an affair would not seem complete without numbers by the hostess organization, so the Glee club has promised to sing three songs probably including one or more of those which will be used in the annual contest for state leadership in Auxiliary Glee club organizations.

Mrs. Andrew Lykke as general chairman of arrangements, has had the co-operation of all the members, working under such efficient sub-chairmen as Mrs. Harvey Spears, Mrs. Frederick K. Halber, Mrs. Flossie Winter, Mrs. Charles Hyde Jr., Miss Gladys Young, Mrs. Joyce Utz, Mrs. A. F. Thorman, Mrs. Will Lineberger, and others.

Gold Star Mothers Honors Members Going Abroad

Santa Ana chapter No. 4, American Gold Star Mothers held one of the usual interesting meetings Monday afternoon in Legion hall, where special features followed the business program at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Mary Croal and Mrs. Clara Rosell found themselves the center of interest because of their plans to leave at an early date for a trip overseas to the battlefields in France where their hero sons are resting. Each of them was complimented with a bouquet of pretty handkerchiefs to be used on the trip. Also each one was presented with a fragrant bouquet of carnations and baby's breath, while a third cluster of flowers was given Mrs. Grace Lanning who was to leave Wednesday for a visit of indefinite length in her old home in Nebraska.

The afternoon closed with a friendly interval during which refreshments were served as a special compliment to the three travelers, and during which they received the good wishes of the other Gold Star Mothers for safe and interesting journeys.

Interesting Home Is Scene of Auxiliary Meeting

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Orange County Medical association held a regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon as guests of Mrs. H. A. Johnston in her interesting home in Anaheim where many lovely curios and works of art from various European countries enhance the attractions.

Mrs. H. M. Gobar of Fullerton gave a current event of interest on "New Treatments for Peptic Ulcer." The main talk of the day was given by Dr. J. M. Robinson of the Anaheim clinic. He talked on "The Normal Child."

Mrs. Dexter Ball of this city, gave an account of the state convention held the past week in San Francisco. She attended as a delegate, and announced that Mrs. F. E. Coulter was at this time made president-elect of the State Medical auxiliary. Mrs. J. I. Percy, past president of the State auxiliary, gave an interesting talk.

Unusually enjoyable was the musical program, presented as a special feature. This consisted of organ selection played automatically on the large organ which is a vital part of the Johnston home. Dainty refreshments were served with the conclusion of the day, with Mrs. Coulter and Mrs. J. Luther Maroon presiding at the tea and coffee urns.

Table decorations were attractively carried out, with an Italian cut-work cloth serving as an appropriate setting for the crystal candleholders and slender candles. Gracefully arranged flowers added to the effect.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Several hours of skating in a Long Beach rink were shared recently by members of the Christian Endeavor society of the First Christian church. Early in the evening supper was served on the bench of Belmont shore.

Those in the party were the Misses Elisabeth Hurd, Mildred Paul, Violet Johnson, Virginia Robb, Lorus Jenks, Gretchen Frieble, Albert Sanford, Edna Hall, Maude Williams, Grace Haskell, Dorothy Ferris, Lucille Howell, Marcella Hartigan and Doris Rimel.

Messrs. John Frisbie, Clifford Haskell, James Lash, Ernest Hill, John Taylor, D. Carter, Miles Leonard, Francis Hall, Glenwood Aldine, Everett Hurd, Harold Baker, Larry Taylor and Ira Dameril.

J. O. C. Class

The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Axworthy at 1308 North Baker street, was rendezvous last night for members of the J. O. C. class of the First Baptist church, with Mrs. Axworthy assisted by Mrs. Max Holmes, Mrs. R. E. McBurney and Miss Gertrude Minor as co-hostesses.

Miss Lulu Minter, president of the group, conducted the monthly business session after devotionals led by Mrs. M. M. Holmes. Of chief interest were the plans for the J. O. C. assembly to be held at Pacific Palisades May 23 and 24, at which the local organization will be well represented.

Miss Helen Lowe, daughter of one of the class members, gave several piano selections, and the entire group joined with much spirit in singing old familiar songs with Miss Mayne Havens as accompanist. Refreshments served by the hostess group, brought the pleasant evening to a close.

First Baptist Church Members of the Woman's society of the First Baptist church held their monthly meeting Tuesday.

Much work was accomplished in the sewing departments, and at noon about 75 were seated at the luncheon tables, which were prettily decorated with miniature May poles and spring flowers.

All mothers present were presented with dainty little bouquets. Mrs. Jennie Crawford read an article appropriate to Mother's day. During the business session Mrs. M. Robinson, Mrs. M. M. Holmes and Mrs. H. E. Wheeler were appointed delegates to the Northern Baptist convention to be held in Kansas City June 3 to 8.

The program of the afternoon was made interesting through the use of pictures showing views of Porto Rico and the Baptist work there.

Missionary Meeting The Woman's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church met yesterday in the church parlors for an all-day meeting.

At noon a splendid luncheon was served by a committee composed of Mrs. C. E. Harris, Mrs. Scott Thompson, Mrs. T. L. Warren and Mrs. Agnes Jack.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the society was called to order by the president, Mrs. A. J. McFadden. The program, in charge of Mrs. Mary Herring, followed the worship service led by Mrs. M. M. Tidball. "Our Newest Americans" was the topic for the day.

An original reading was given by Miss Vivian Switzer. As Mrs. Albert Finley was unable to be present, Mrs. Mary Lindsay read Mrs. Finley's paper as well as one prepared by Mrs. Emmett Raitt.

Of interest to all was the letter from Miss Minnieha Finley, read by Mrs. W. S. Kennedy. Miss Finley is a missionary in Tanta, Egypt. Mrs. Tidball gave a report of the Women's Federated society meeting held recently in the First Baptist church, and Mrs. O. S. Johnson read an interesting letter from Egypt. Miss Minnie Cowan spoke on the work among the Indians in Oregon, and the program closed with a short talk by Mrs. Herring.

The next meeting will be held June 8 in the home of Mrs. Herbert Walker.

May Time Colors Are Carried Out at Bridge Party

The delicate pastel tints of spring were expressed in charming fashion yesterday afternoon when Mrs. N. E. Watson entertained in her home, 601 East Walnut street. Those present included members of her bridge club as well as several special guests.

A wealth of colorful garden flowers adorned the rooms. At the table a May pole served as a central figure, from which varicolored ribbons radiated to nut cups in harmonizing tints. Napkins carried out the pastel motif, as did baskets of yellow rosebuds, sweet peas and blue delphiniums at either end of the table. A dessert course was served as a prelude to the bridge games of the afternoon.

High scores at cards for members and guests were held by Mrs. Louis Bittle and Mrs. R. P. Meairs, while second high scores were held by Mrs. Earl Neer and Mrs. Worth Alexander. All received attractive prizes.

Those present included Mesdames Worth Alexander, Louis Bittle, Kenneth Coulson, Frank Dane, E. V. Kelsey, K. A. King, Marcus Lassiter, Karl Lepper, Philip La Londe, Earl McBay, R. F. Meairs, C. L. Neer, Virgil Shidler, Earl Neer, Thomas Tournat and the hostess, Mrs. Watson.

The evening was concluded with a social time, during which the hostess served refreshments, assisted by Miss Patricia Kelley.

Ebell Hostesses Add Final Function to Finance Series

Declaring themselves to be a van guard bringing up the rear in the drive for funds for Ebell treasury, a little group of prominent women of the club who had not yet entertained at any of the delightful parties of the financial plan, joined forces yesterday in a luncheon and bridge given in the clubhouse to 74 appreciative guests.

The hostess group consisted of the Ebell president, Mrs. Robert G. Tutill, Mrs. William L. Deimling, Mrs. A. G. Flagg, Mrs. J. Frank Burke, Mrs. Frank W. Slabaugh, Mrs. R. O. Winkler, Mrs. Charles F. Smith, Mrs. B. H. Sharpless, Mrs. Alice Hill Hatch and Mrs. F. C. Rowland.

In the peacock room, where their hospitality found expression in the serving of a most delectable luncheon the twelve hostesses had arranged three tables extending at right angles from one very long table. The effect was of a fragrant garden, so vivid and so lovely were the flowers used.

Music had its part in the day's pleasure, and Mrs. Slabaugh presented one of her vocal pupils, June Burns, (Mrs. Edward H. Burns) in the number, "Violet," sung very sweetly with Mrs. Slabaugh at the piano. For an encore number, Mrs. Burns chose "Mighty Like a Rose" with Mrs. Slabaugh harmonizing the melody with her.

Continuing their hospitality, the hostesses directed their guests to other rooms of the clubhouse for the after-lunch program of games. Devotees of contract bridge found tables suited to their purpose in the board room, inviting with its moderne draperies and appointments. Those who retain their allegiance to auction, sought the patio, where "the faint sweet smell of the jasmine flower" wrought its magic. For those who did not care for bridge, a variety of games offered entertainment in the lounge.

Pretty gifts had been selected for winners in the various events. Mrs. Lloyd A. Chenoweth, Mrs. Leonard G. Swales, Mrs. George Briggs and Mrs. Carson, a guest of Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer, were contract players awarded the pretty table prizes. In auction, Mrs. Harvey Spears took first prize, Mrs. Minnie Collins second, and Mrs. J. S. Smart, third. Those who won in the game program held in the lounge, were Mrs. C. M. Featherly, Mrs. T. D. Knights and Mrs. LeRoy Hall.

In addition to providing such an enjoyable afternoon for the hundred women represented by the twelve hostesses and their guests, the party added a generous sum to the fund required to carry the club through the summer months when meetings and general club activities will cease.

Representatives of the major activities of the P.-T. A. are the posters now being completed by students of Orange county schools in a contest to come to a close May 14 when a "poster-tee" will be held between the hours of 2 and 4 in the home of Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, 1317 North Main street. Mrs. Robertson is president of the fourth district P.-T. A. and her home is known as the district office.

Between 30 and 50 posters are expected to be entered, and prize winners will be selected at the tea. Judges will include William A. Griffith, well known Laguna Beach artist; Miss Ruth Goodwin, art teacher at the Brea-Olinda high school, and Mrs. Frank Brooks, of Los Angeles, state art chairman of the P.-T. A.

Mrs. Robertson has announced that $15 in prizes will be awarded. The four winning posters will be placed on exhibit at the state P.-T. A. convention to be held May 25 to 29 in San Francisco.

For the tea May 14 Mrs. Robertson will be assisted in her hostess duties by Mrs. J. Edmund Snow, Mrs. C. H. Marcher and Mrs. S. I. Preble.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

When You Mix Cheese Cake

I have some information I wish to pass on relative to the mixing of cheese cake. I was comforted by the woman who taught me with the admonition that I would probably fall the first few times before I got the hang of it exactly right. She was certainly a kitchen prophet crying in her wilderness!

The first stumbling stone I met with was the refining of the cottage cheese. The first time I put it once through the potato ricer—and the cake came out lumpy. The second time the cheese was ricd twice—still the texture was coarse. But the third time—ah, that was another story!

I ricd the cheese twice, added the cup of thin cream, and whipped it with an egg beater till it was as smooth as silk; then for safety I pressed the mixture through a sieve.

Another mistake I made at first was the shallow pan I used for baking the cheese cake. The pan must have sides at least two inches deep, and for shape let it be square or oblong rather than round. This permits all portions of the cake to cook evenly, and the texture is creamy and light throughout, rather than the solid stolidity of the too thin variety.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Cheese Cake

1 pound cottage cheese
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 cup sugar

3 eggs, whites beaten separately
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 teaspoon vanilla
Good pinch of salt
1 cup thin cream

For Crust

1/4 cups sifted flour
1/4 tablespoons butter
2 rounded teaspoons baking powder

Ice water to mix

(Mrs. W. P. R., Cincinnati, O.)

First let's have the directions for the pastry: Cut the butter into the flour sifted with baking powder and salt. When it is mealy fine, add water carefully, just enough to make it hold together. Turn onto a floured board and roll out very thin. Fit to pan and trim edges off flush with edge of pan. Do not turn under as for pie crust.

Read the opening paragraph and use the same directions for the cottage cheese. Buy a dry cottage cheese, one that has not been softened with cream for commercial use.

After preparing the cheese beat the egg yolk very light and add them slowly to the cheese and cream, beating well. Mix the sugar and corn starch and stir carefully into this mixture. Follow with the melted butter and vanilla and last of all fold in the stiffly beaten whites, using a whipping motion to mix through the cheese, but not to the point of beating out all the air. Turn this mixture into the pasted, lined pan, and start baking in a hot oven (450 degrees). After five min-

All persons who were present last week can obtain tickets without cost at the theater any time this week, which will admit them to the midnight show.

Broadcasting over Station KREG will be made from the stage, through a remote control line being installed this week. A number of KREG stars will appear on the program.

"Meet the Wife" will be the feature picture shown at the midnight show. It stars Laura La Plante and Harry Meyers, the latter having been seen here recently in "The Connecticut Yankee."

GEORGE ARLISS OPENS HERE IN "MILLIONAIRE"

"The Millionaire," the Warner Bros. comedy drama, which comes to the Fox Broadway theater today, presents George Arliss in the role of a modern business man, who, sent by his doctor for a rest-cure—takes a work-cure in his stead—as well as a course of lessons from two young lovers, on how-to-be-happy-through-rich.

Those who support Mr. Arliss are his wife, Florence Montgomery Arliss, David Manners, Evalyn Knapp, James Cagney, Bramwell Fletcher, Noah Beery, Ivan Simpson, J. C. Nugent, Sam Mardy, J. Farrell MacDonald and Tully Marshall. John Adolf directed.

In "The Millionaire" he plays the part of a self-made millionaire who is ordered by his physician to take a rest. With his ambitious wife and pretty daughter, he goes away as directed, but soon wears of the inactivity, the social round and the rich young nitwit who is making a play for his daughter's hand. An insurance man warns him the increased risk incurred by retired business men, and he at once decides to get busy.

Without his wife's knowledge he answers a garage sales-ad. On reaching the address he finds a youth, has just paid all of his cash for a half-interest in the service station. THE TINYMITES
STORY BY MAL COCHRAN — PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

At first the little Chinese tot was rather frightened, like as not. However, it began to grin when Cloway hopped around. Then all the others shook its hand and then it seemed to understand that everyone was friendly and a smile replaced a frown.

"How old are you?" one Tiny said. The Travel Man then shook his head and said, "He cannot understand unless you talk Chinese. I know a few words I can say." And then he turned the baby's way and rattled off in Chinese, "I won't let these Tinies tease."

The youngster clapped his hands and, gee, he looked as cute as a button. They played with him a little while and then they waved goodbye. Before the bunch were out of sight, said kindly Scouty Tinymite, "He seemed real sad to see us go. I know I heard him sigh."

Nearby they had a noontime meal. Said Coppy, "My, how good I feel! What are we going to look at next? There's still a lot to see." The Travel Man replied, "You bet. Another thrill you'll shortly get. We're going to a real strange street. Come on, boys, follow me."

They reached the street he had in mind and all were quite surprised to find that it was just a winding stream that traveled through the town. "It's water, but it's a street. I hope that we will shortly meet a boatman," said the Travel Man. "He'll take us up and down."

And so they waited till a craft came down the stream. Wee Coppy laughed and said, "We'll sure look funny if we scrambled on that ship." But, when up to the shore it slid, that just exactly what they did. The Travel Man exclaimed, "Silt tight! We're on another trip!"

Missing Letter Links

RULES:

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

VERY

MANY

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

VERY TO MANY—There aren't VERY MANY long par six holes like today's. You had better be careful with your strokes, or you'll be shooting clear off the paper.

TORPEDO SHOT IN DEEP TEST WELL AT H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, May 7.—W. L. McCaslin, drilling a four-inch hole below 7500 feet at Twenty-first and Olive streets, is believed to be making new oil history for Huntington Beach field.

A second torpedo was shot in the well Tuesday and Wednesday the drill crews got by their second well job in the field's deepest toward the goal, a heavily saturated oil sand in the Vaqueros formation.

The Superior Oil company has moved in 5500 feet of nine-inch casing on the Gillette No. 7 well between Walnut and Olive on Twentieth street. This is to be the water string for the second deep test of the Superior Oil company, one well now standing cemented on the sand at 7530. The Superior has also moved in 1300 feet of casing on the deep well at Ocean and Fifteenth street.

Whether all this casing will do for the Twentieth street well, Gillette No. 7, or whether the Superior is planning to set nine-inch casing in both wells, is not known.

BREA COUNCIL MAKES OFFER OF $1575 ON WELL

BREA, May 7.—City councilmen at their meeting last night devoted the entire time to discussion of Brea's water problem. F. J. Schweitzer presiding in the absence of Assemblyman Ted Craig, chairman of the council.

W. A. Culp's offer to sell the city a water well located on property belonging to Culp & Sexton, just opposite the Shaffer Tool works on South Redwood, for the sum of $3500, was rejected. Instead the councilmen offered Culp $1575 for the well, which is expected to develop 15 inches of water. No definite action was taken. Culp stating that he would have to confer with Sexton, who lives in Radlands, before making an answer to the offer.

If the purchase of this well can be negotiated and a well of similar capacity developed it is believed by the councilmen that the water problem will have been met for some time to come. With the two wells already owned by the city and the shares in the La Habra Valley Water company, this added well in the water supply would increase the total to something over 75 inches. Purchase of the Culp & Sexton well would necessitate the purchase and laying of something over 800 feet of pipe, it was stated.

BREA DOCTORS TELL USE OF RESUSCITATOR

BREA, May 7.—The use of an automatic resuscitator and its operation were explained by Dr. W. E. Jackson and Dr. Glenn Curtis, Brea physicians, at a meeting of the Brea Chamber of Commerce held here yesterday at the Olson & Dyer cafe. The physicians are joint owners of the machine which, however, is available to the public. Brea firemen, Dr. Jackson stated, have been instructed in the operation of the resuscitator so that in extreme necessity, when professional supervision might not be possible, they will be able to provide the breathing stimulant.

President LeGro read a communication from the Auto Club of Southern California in which the Brea chamber was asked to urge the members of the legislature to pass a bill to amend the existing law affecting the motor vehicle. One bill would impose a charge of $1 for an operator's license, and the other would make it impossible to secure a car license without first showing a receipt for county tax on personal property. LeGro expressed the belief that Craig would oppose these measures and no action was taken by the chamber.

A dinner meeting of the chamber, the first of the present year, will be held on the evening of May 20 in the Legion hall here with the members of the Legion auxiliary serving the dinner. Mrs. Stella Keene and Mrs. John Gandy will have charge of the program and expect to have a fine speaker present. Members of the Yorba Linda chamber will be guests.

H. A. MacClatchie will have charge of the program for next week's meeting.

A. workers of the county planning to go as delegates, and an equally representative number of women from other districts expected to attend, the thirty-second annual convention of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held May 25 to 29 at San Francisco. The Whitcomb and William Taylor hotels will be headquarters while all meetings will take place in the Civic auditorium.

Preble, corresponding secretary of the fourth district; Mrs. Hugh Neighbour, out-going president of the Santa Ana City Council P.-T. A. and Mrs. Roy Beall. Other Orange county cities to be represented are Newport Beach, Anaheim, Orange, Laguna Beach, Westminster and Buena Park.

Dr. Gertrude Laws, of the bureau of parent education of California, who is well-known in this city where she has directed various classes, will be one of the conference leaders. Merrill, of the State Teachers' college, Ohio, and Miss Helen Heffernan, of the child hygiene bureau.

One of the conference speakers will be John Almack, professor of education, Stanford University, who will give the address he delivered before the White House conference on "Child Health and Protection." Others scheduled to give addresses are Mrs. Hugh Bradford, national president, Mrs. Marjette Johnson, nationally known educator, founder of the school of organic education, of Fairhope, Alabama; Elliott G. Meares, professor of geography and international trade, School of Business, Stanford University; Miss Frances Hayes, research and information secretary of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Hon. Officers Elected At Ebell Meeting Held With Miss May

Mrs. S. B. Marshall was chosen new leader of the Modern Poetry section of Ebell society at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Miss Beulah May, 1003 Mabury street. Mrs. Harwood Sharp was co-hostess with Miss May.

Others chosen to serve with Mrs. Marshall were Miss Vaneche Plumb, vice president; Mrs. Percy Davis, secretary, and Miss Mabel Whitling, treasurer.

Mrs. L. M. Smith gave the review of the day, telling of John Oxenham and his works. It was revealed that Oxenham was the writer's nom de plume, that the well-christened William Arthur Dunster was up to the time of the World war he had published 40 volumes of fiction, many of which were serials.

Most of the books written by Oxenham after this time were in the form of poetry, and the first of these was "Bees in Amber." "All's Well" and "The Vision Splendid" followed. Many of his poems are religious in thought, and have been set to music for hymns. Oxenham has four daughters and a son, all of whom publish poems and other writings.

Miss May read a poem written by Mrs. Sharp, which was published in this month's edition of the Poetry Magazine. Greetings to section members were read, and were sent by Mrs. Blake, a former member, who plans to spend this summer in Santa Ana.

Plans were made for the benefit party the section will give Friday afternoon, May 15, at 2:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. E. M. Stephenson, 1522 North Broadway. Mrs. Stephenson, Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Mrs. Percy Davis and Mrs. Robert Northcross will be hostesses.

Medals from the affair will go to Mrs. Jeffries, a poet who has been confined to the hospital for the past seven years, and who although she has written several books, has not the money to publish them.

Claumpit Drum Corps And Drill Team Are Luncheon Hosts

A general air of friendliness and comradeship prevailed Tuesday afternoon, when members of the drum corps of Calumet camp, U. S. W. V., and of the drill team of Calumet auxiliary, tendered an "appreciation dinner" to the women of the auxiliary who had assisted so materially in presenting a recent dinner and evening party to aid in defraying expenses of the two organizations to the annual state convention to open Sunday, May 17, in Vallejo.

The meeting was held in Knights of Columbus hall where the menu of home-prepared dishes was served promptly at noon, following a practice drill by auxiliary members during the morning hours, under the direction of their drill leader, Mrs. May Glaze. When all were seated at the two long tables, centered with clusters of deep purple lilies, and with bouquets of coral gladioli, Mrs. Glaze told the purpose of the hospitality.

SAVANNAH STUDENTS PRESENT PROGRAM

HANSEN, May 7.—The auditorium was filled to its seating capacity for the program that the Savannah Parent-Teacher association gave Tuesday evening. Flavia Foster and Olea Arnett pinned a red carnation with a sprig of green on each mother as she entered. Mrs. T. W. Clark led the salute to the flag and the opening song. The president, Mrs. Robert Hyton, took charge of a short business session.

Plans were made for the annual picnic to be held in Anaheim park June 2. The primary room taught by Mrs. Dennis will have the picture for the coming month. An opera entitled "In a Florist's Window," was given by the pupils of the primary room assisted by a few from the intermediate room. Flowers had been prepared by the members of the P.-T. A. The florists were Allen Hovener and Lorraine Miller. The costumes were elaborate and represented flowers. Songs were rendered by Mesdames K. Rutledge, M. Nordstrom, L. Lukins and R. Gillison.

Mrs. Hyton read a short poem to mothers. After the close of the meeting Mrs. Evans invited the audience to her room to inspect the artistic floral work of the students. This will be on exhibition at the Orange show.

The regular reading circle of the Savannah P.-T. A. will meet this Tuesday afternoon of this month. On this Friday evening the eighth graders will entertain their mothers.

PARENTS AND LAW OBSERVANCE

The mind of the child is extremely logical. From an observation or the statement of a fact he makes long drawn-out deductions which astonish parents and are the butt of comic sections. Often it is impossible to imagine the line their reasoning will take, but sometimes it is not at all difficult.

Dr. William John Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, speaking yesterday to the delegates to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, meeting at Hot Springs, Arkansas, blamed improper home environment for popularizing the bootlegger among boys and girls. In a recent survey, in an unnamed city, he said that nearly all the boys and ninety per cent of the girls were acquainted with the activities of the bootlegger and only about forty per cent of the same children had ever heard of the prohibition law or realized the bootlegger was violating it.

Respect for law is one of the things which should be taught in the home. The other day Williams in his "Out Our Way" cartoon in The Register put the matter in a nutshell. The family were driving along the rural road when sister and mother, noticing the beautiful fruit blossoms immediately thought how lovely they would look in a certain vase at home. Long suffering young brother let loose the following speech: "Awright—I'll do dis job. But lemme tell youse Big Shots—Dis is me last job fer youse. Git dis—From now on I'm goin' straight. I got that from a gangster story, but it means me, too—I'm thru bein' the family burglar—I'm goin' straight!"

Whether it is speeding, or parking overtime and rejoicing in "getting away with it," or digging up cacti, and patronizing the bootlegger, all teach disrespect for law. The "little pitchers" have logical minds as well as sharp ears. They are learning disrespect for law in the home.

One isn't inclined to be too hard on the parents for, some of them haven't very logical minds and others, as a probation officer, speaking in Santa Ana not long ago said, haven't minds capable of coping with the problems which are their children. Most of the parents deplore the "crime wave" as manifested in Chicago without seeing any connection between that and the teaching of law-observance through example.

Berlin scientists find that persons under the influence of liquor burn more easily than sober persons. This may explain why so many look "off-color" after a drink.

EXPERTS AS EMPLOYEES

This is an age for experts and specialists. There was a time, many hundred years ago, when one man could know all discovered facts. So far have we departed from that time that it now strikes us as very funny. Long ago, having been overwhelmed with the extent and depth of knowledge, we were forced to place confidence in experts. It is necessary that we should, however jealous we may be of our citizen's prerogatives. In order to get anywhere we must place some confidence in the opinion of those who have done concentrated study.

We are handicapped in this by generations of the teaching of human equality. It has taken on strange meaning in some minds. The business executive would not get very far, nor extend his business to any very large proportions who insisted on doing all the scientific experiments himself, and all the bookkeeping himself, and all the purchasing and all the selling as well as establishing all the principles and policies. The wise executive head learns how to use experts, when to trust them, how to check on them, how to use their work as a base for growth and progress.

Natural lethargy, as well as lack of scientific training, make it useless to extend the time for the consideration of the engineers' report to any great length. Those who are interested and unprejudiced are today reading and considering the report as it came from the engineers ten days ago and as portions of it are being printed every day in The Register. Before an election could legally be held, if steps were taken at once to hold one, thousands more could consider it.

The county has already spent two hundred thousand dollars in getting this report. It should be considered now and acted upon. The longer it is held for consideration the more lethargic people become about the matter. We become contemptuous with familiarity, as well as indifferent. Do not let us get into the habit of wasting the reports of experts, for no very good reason except indigestion. It would be expensive to resort to an object lesson for discovering just how costly it is in this day and age not to put any confidence in experts but it may be the only way to learn.

A WORD OF GRATITUDE

Music Week is now drawing to a close. This year, as last year, it has been most successful. Hundreds have enjoyed excellent programs. The capacity for enjoyment of many people has been increased. From this week they can go on to music every day.

The citizens of this community, who have shared in the excellent programs which have been presented, owe a debt of gratitude to the earnest and unselfish labors of the music week committee: Frances Beeson, Mrs. F. W. Slabough, Gladys Simpson Shafer, Cecil Fross Willits, D. C. Cianfoni, Rev. Harry Evan Owings, H. G. Nelson, Rev. W. J. Hatter, Harry Hansen, D. H. Tibbals, and W. K. Hillyard.

Weeks ago these people began to work and plan to make the musical programs as fine and as varied as was humanly possible. And also to make good music available this week to every service club and gathering of citizens.

Music offers the release many people need from their too-absorbing daily labor. There are many happy people who are balancing their lives in a most satisfying manner by means of music. Einstein plays the violin, William Allen White has a passion for music and plays the piano. The late Nicholas Longworth was a very good violinist. Ambassador Charles Dawes also plays the violin and is a composer of note. There are many others less accomplished who are finding pleasure and joy through music. The wise person balances his life in some way, some by cabinet-making, others by painting. Music Week, in addition to providing good entertainment, suggests a starting point for a more varied and interesting life.

SHOULD TRAIN MEN FOR PUBLIC SERVICE

Men are often criticized who are in position to represent any relationship to foreign affairs and much of this criticism would be modified if we would remember that most of our men in positions of this character are untrained for their work. America has held aloof from world affairs, both because of her traditions and geographical location, and it has only been in comparatively recent years that the medium of communication and travel have forced her to realize that she was one in a small neighborhood. This has brought her decisions necessarily in the forefront.

The position which America today occupies, of course, makes all of these opinions and decisions of the first importance. Yet we are forced to place men in positions of authority who have had no training whatever for the place and they are pitted against representatives from other countries with whom the matters of international relationship are as common as their town gossip, together with the fact that they have been trained, many of them, since boyhood in the very service in which they are engaged. This is particularly true of Great Britain.

It is a wonder under the circumstances that we have had as near a real policy governing our foreign relationships as we have had. But the important position which we occupy industrially and financially in the world lays upon our people the obligation to make some adequate preparations for the training of men for this department of our public service.

Parents Never Did Keep Step With the Children

San Francisco Chronicle

Most children will agree with Dr. Gertrude Laws of the California State Department of Education that modern parents are the greatest need of the younger generation. Indeed, although Dr. Laws expressed the opinion only last week before a conference on parental education at Hot Springs, Ark., it might have been voiced and probably has been any time for the last three or four thousand years.

No doubt when Solomon was bemoaning the heedlessness of the youth of his era, which he did occasionally, the champions of the youngsters were retorting that the trouble lay with parents who refuse to take a forward view of things and are on general principles a lot of old fogies at the best.

It must be conceded that parents are inclined to conservatism where their children are concerned and that children are equally prone to think of parents as a bit slow even though rather comforting things to have around in time of trouble. Job, who, according to the high criticism, antedated Solomon by centuries, reflected a common parental regret because "They that are younger than I have me in derision." The author of the Book of Proverbs was strongly on the parents' side. He not only advised liberal use of the rod but he said that "The glory of children are their fathers."

In this perennial debate, however, the children have the last word. A thousand years hence, or three thousand, Jobs and Solomons will bewail the irrelevance of youth. And the Dr. Gertrude Laws of the day will rise up to tell the parents to get in step with the time for their children's sake.

For "One generation goeth and another generation cometh, but the earth abideth forever." It is the way of the world.

Two-Dollar Bills

Oakland Tribune

"Times being as they are, it is difficult to account for the fact thousands of men in the United States hesitate and grumble before they will accept a two-dollar bill. Even those who are willing to brave the fates by walking under a ladder, or consider thirteen is but one of many numbers have been known to regard with distaste the paper equivalent of two solid dollars. Hoping the bad luck notion would wash the treasury has continued to issue the flim notes which come back with corners torn off as a sign the well-known civilized mortal has done his best to destroy the curse.

Strange it is, but the government issues the two dollar bills and tries to make them popular because of the economy involved. The people, tearing off the corners, cause a great quantity of them to be returned and run up huge printing bills. The purpose is defeated and there is talk of surrendering the bill to the popular superstition. If so, the note should make interesting reading to the historians of the future who delve among our ruins for evidences upon which to judge our civilization and culture.

More Truth Than Poetry

PLEA IN EXTENUATION

I know the Greeks were wise and great
For many men have said it,
But yet I always hesitate
To give them any credit.
Small wonder that their realm they placed
Among the world's great powers
For they had little chance to waste
Their golden hours.

When Great Augustus ruled in Rome
He had to be contented
With putting in his time at home—
The "speakers" weren't invented.
And so he spent long busy days
In earnest cogitation
On all the most efficient ways
To build a nation.

Voltaire and other men of brain
Lost little time in shirking,
They always must have sought in vain
To duck the task of working.
They'd not have written things sublime
To please the thinking classes
Had they known how to waste their time
With spoons and brassicas.

Small wonder that with mighty thought
The present generations
Will never do half that they ought
To elevate the nation.
If we do not devote our years
To great and noble uses
And carve out marvelous careers
We have excuses.

Are Profits Something for Nothing?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

"The Russian experiment will succeed," we are told, "because it does away with the unjust profit system. Any one who pockets business profits obtains something for nothing."

Is that strictly true? Let us see. Suppose you lend a man your harvesting machine for the season. Will it be all right to charge him something for the use of it?

Or suppose you lend him money, so that he can buy a harvesting machine of his own. Will it be all right to charge him interest on the money?

In either case, you contribute something and run the risk of losing it. If, instead of losing what you lend, you gain a profit, it is not true that you obtain something for nothing.

Now, there is no essential difference between lending a man capital goods, and lending a man the money wherewith to buy capital goods. Nor is there any essential difference between lending to one man and lending to an organization of men. Nor does it matter whether the organization is called a corporation, or a bank, or a co-operative society. In every case, there is risk of loss.

When you buy a share of stock in any corporation, you give the corporation the use of your money. In return, you may receive dividends. On the other hand, you may lose your money.

To induce any one to take such risks, there must be a prospect of profit. If the profit is realized, it is not something for nothing. It is a reward for risk-bearing and for wisdom in the choice of risks.

Russia may or may not succeed in her dramatic adventure. The profit system may or may not be the best one. But it is confusing the issue, and ignoring the facts, to say that any man who pockets business profits obtains something for nothing.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

PORTRAIT OF A FRIEND.

The other day there passed out of the lives of a group of us a rare spirit.

She was not known to the nation, and it would be beside the point to name her here, but the qualities that made her great to her intimate friends are worth recording as a portrait of a type of character that is all too rare.

There was about her an amazing aliveness of mind and spirit that invigorated those who came into contact with her.

There was about her a spaciousness of spirit that set her apart from petty judgments, small hatreds, and narrow counsels.

Generosity, justice, and a kind of divine tolerance were in her innate and involuntary.

None could have known her without sensing depths of mind and spirit beneath the casual manner and lightness of mood with which she met life.

She faced duty without flinching.

She was capable of sacrifice without whimpering.

And nothing could dampen the gossamer wings of her spirit's gaiety.

None who knew her ever caught even a transient trace of pose or pretense in her.

She did not know how to disbelieve in humankind. Herself incapable of a shoddy or small motive for speech or act, she had a rare incapacity for imputing such motives to others. In her relation to others, she was a great believer.

Without parading it, she had a very real philosophy of life into which had been woven something of the Epicurean love of life, the Stoicism that faces sorrow and heavy duty with courage and self-control, and the Aristotelian sense of proportion.

She was a confidante and counselor to whom one could go with assurance of understanding and sympathy. The brilliancy of her mind was matched only by her transcendent genius for friendship.

In her loyalty there was no touch of the alloy of self-seeking.

She gave of herself to her friends without thought of return.

Such men and women win immortality in the hearts of their friends!

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI
WINNING THE PRIZE

"Pussy, the teacher says you are not doing very well in your lessons. What's the matter?"

"I don't know. She says I'm lazy but I'm not."

"Now listen, Pussy. You have to work. You don't want to be left back. Tell you what I'll do. You get a hundred percent each day this week in spelling and arithmetic, not exactly a hundred you know, as near as you can get to a hundred, ninety-eight, maybe, ninety-nine, and a hundred, you get high marks every day, and I'll take you to the city to see the show."

"O good, I'm crazy to see that show, mother. I'll surely get a hundred." And she did.

Every afternoon she reported a perfect mark, or nearly so and even showed papers to prove it. "There now. You see? You can do fine work when you want to. I'll take you to the show tomorrow." But she did not take her to the show. There was a sad reason.

Saturday's morning's mail brought a letter to mother. It was from the teacher and it read something like this: "Dear madam: Unless your daughter Amelia does better work than she has done this past week she will have to work with the lower grade during some of her free time in order to hold her place in her grade. If she shows no improvement next week over this one, she will not be promoted this term. She received a failing mark in every subject of her grade this week."

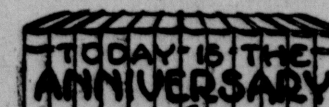

"Pussy, how could you tell me such a lie? Why did you? Tell me!"

"Because, mother, I wanted to go to the show."

Rewards will not help a failing child. Children do not fail because of a lack of desire to do well. All children would do well if they could. Some fundamental weakness causes their difficulty and until that is discovered and removed there is little hope of improvement.

GOMPERS' APPEAL

On May 7, 1917, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, sent an appeal by cable to the executive committee of the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates at Petrograd after the czar had been overthrown.

The appeal said in part:

"The gravest crisis in the world's history is now hanging in the balance and the course which Russia will pursue may have a determining influence whether democracy or autocracy shall prevail. Now that Russian autocracy is overthrown, neither the American government nor the American people apprehend that the wisdom and experience of Russia in the coming constitutional assembly will adopt any form of government other than the one best suited to your needs.

"The American government, the American people, the American labor movement, are wholeheartedly with the Russian workers, and the Russian masses, in the great effort to maintain the freedom you have already achieved."
